

DISCOVER GANG OF ANARCHISTS

Search for Missing Chicago Chef Results in Disclosures

CAPT. HUNT HAS NAMES

Letters are Said to Disclose Plot Extending to Rome, Italy, to Destroy Churches

DETECTIVES SEARCH FOR MEN

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(Capt.) In Nicholas Hunt of the detective bureau who is directing the search for Jean Cronos, the missing, assistant chef who is suspected of having poisoned the soup served at a banquet to Archbishop Mundelein here last Thursday said tonight that the search has developed the existence of a gang of fifteen anarchists, whose grudge lay principally against the church and churchmen.

Captain Hunt said that he had the names of most of the members and that detectives have been instructed to search for them.

Hunt names Frank Allegrini, in whose rooms anarchists letters and literature was found, as one of the men. The names of the alleged anarchists are said to have been taken from six letters. They were written in 1913 and are said to disclose a widespread plot extending to Rome, Italy, to destroy churches and church property of all creeds. According to Detective Sergeant Paul McElroy, who aided in translating the letters from the Italian in which they were written, the headquarters of the society was in Rome. Efforts were made, it was said, to organize branches of the society all over the world. In the United States, public buildings were to receive the attention of the anarchists, in addition to the churches.

Most of the letters were without signatures. One dated Chicago, March 24th, 1913, was addressed to Dear Allegrini. Another was dated Salda, Colo., September 13th, and was addressed to Dear Frank. It was signed "Joseph Folladidini." Still another was addressed to "Dear Cousin" from Piqua, Ohio.

Goes Into Details of Bomb.

The first of the letters unaddressed and unsigned goes into details of a bomb invented by the writer.

"This," says the letter, "will be a fine thing to throw among a lot of religious people when they go out dressed in the best clothes on the boulevard to talk the sermon over."

The second letter mentioned the receipt of a letter from Allegrini.

"I read your letter and am glad you are taking interest," it said. "But I will recommend you to be careful with your pals, because there may be some traitors among them who cannot tell a lie to fool justice."

The third letter which was written from Salda, said:

"I have sent your trunk. Things are pretty bad here. The strike is very hot but your trunk was in good hands all the time."

"That dirty . . . Marchie has made a report that you and I beg you to be careful and let me know if you are in a safe place."

"I will let you know why I write again." This letter was signed Folladidini.

Several maps and drawings were found. They were said to indicate that the plotters had designs on the People's Gas, Light & Coke Building of Chicago and other costly structures. Captain Hunt expressed the opinion that the attempt to wreck St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church in New York some time ago probably was a part of the plot of the anarchists.

Conduct Country-Wide Search.

Country-wide search for Jean Cronos, former assistant chef in the University Club and the suspected poisoner of more than a hundred guests last Thursday at a dinner to Archbishop Mundelein was conducted today. The activity of the plot centered chiefly in localities known to be frequented by persons of anarchistic tendencies. The authorities in many cities were asked to cooperate in the effort to find the suspected man.

From the local manager of a correspondence school, with which Cronos took up a course in chemistry, the police learned that the suspected man had purchased a long list of poisonous chemicals for use in his course in chemistry and chemical terminology. The list contained an ounce of the same poison which the city chemists found in a sample of the banquet soup which they analyzed.

WILL PROBABLY AWAIT FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS

TEUTONIC MEMORANDUM DOES NOT NECESSARILY CALL FOR AN ANSWER

Notes Regarding Attitude Toward Armed Ships Probably Will be Brought Officially to the Attention of the Cabinet Today.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Future developments probably will be awaited by the United States before taking any action in response to the memorandum from the Teutonic allies that armed merchant ships will be subjected to submarine attack without warning beginning March 1st. The memorandum, both of which were studied by Secretary Lansing today, do not, it is said, necessarily call for an answer. They probably will be brought officially to the attention of the cabinet tomorrow and some definite policy in regard to them may be decided upon.

It was intimated in official circles that the memorandums received from the German and Austrian governments are considered in themselves a sufficient warning to Americans to refrain from engaging passage on merchant ships of the class of vessels affected by the order.

The United States admittedly has found itself to be in a delicate position as a result of its memorandum to the entente allies and the memorandum from the central powers. Should this government approve of the position of the Teutonic allies, it is believed diplomatic controversies would result, and it might even be charged that the United States had committed an unequal act of benefit to the enemies of the entente.

The central powers it is believed, might be offended should the state department criticize adversely their memorandum, which was generally regarded to be a development of the American memorandum suggesting the disarming of merchantmen. This contained an intimation that the United States itself because of the changed conditions of warfare on the seas might decide that armed merchantmen entering American waters were auxiliary cruisers and subject to internment.

By allowing future developments to determine the stand of the United States it was pointed out all difficulties would be avoided at this time. It is realized, however, that should an armed ship with Americans on board be sunk and the government owning the submarine should announce it considered the vessel was in reality a naval auxiliary, the position of this government would have to be defined.

Information Comes From Boy.

Captain McKean revealed that much of the navy department's information about German submarines had come from a time upon one of them in active service before he could establish his nationality and secure immunity from military duty. The boy whose name was not disclosed, returned to the United States as soon as he was at liberty and proved to be a valuable source of information. While he did not go into detail Captain McKean said experts of the navy had questioned the youth closely.

Representative Britten of Illinois, asked Captain McKean if the action of the department in contracting for sixteen additional small submarines two months ago was not ridiculous, in the light of the information it then had as to the efficiency of larger craft.

Characteristics of ships are determined by the general board," Captain McKean replied. He said he believed it had been thought best to get as many submarines as possible constructed quickly, and that congress had fixed the limit of cost for the sixteen boats thereby limiting their size. He pointed out also that for distances of 300 miles or less the small boat was fully as efficient if not more so than an 800 ton craft. They were imperative for shallow water work, he added.

Representative Britten pressed the witness as to what steps had been taken by the navy department to be ready to meet the emergency conditions which seemed to exist.

Make Much Real Progress.

"We have made more real progress in real readiness," Captain McKean said, in the last two years than in any previous five year period in my experience in the navy. I do not think I have ever known a time when everybody in the service from top to bottom was working as hard with their heads and hands to prepare the fleet for active service.

At another point Representative Britten asked why the department had not attempted to speed up delivery of ships now under construction. Captain McKean said this was a matter for the contractors and the department had little power. If the contractors were penalized, he said, congress always revoked the sentence.

"I think your files will show, Mr. Britten," he said, "that no penalty has even been imposed upon a contractor but that it was rebated sooner or later by act of congress. They may have to wait fifteen years, but they get it back."

ONE OF WINTER'S SEVEREST COLDS WAVES GRIPS ATLANTIC STATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—One of the winter's severest cold waves gripped the Atlantic states today. The northern seaboard suffered most, many points reaching new low temperature records for the season, but there was a decided drop as far south as northern Florida. The coldest place was Canton, N. Y., with 35 degrees below zero. At Pensacola the mercury reached the freezing point. Relief is tomorrow was forecast tonight by the weather bureau for virtually all of the cold wave area.

PRESIDENT CONSENTS TO USE OF HIS NAME AS CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Wilson today consented formally for the first time to the use of his name as a candidate for the presidential nomination in the coming campaign. He declared that he was entirely unwilling to enter the contest for re-nomination.

The definition of the president's attitude in line with the plans of his political associates, is expected to bring in the open the campaign being made in his favor through the country.

Mr. Wilson's declaration was made in a letter to the Ohio secretary of state who had written that candidate for delegate from that state to the national conventions must signify their choice for president by Feb. 25th, and that no presidential candidates could be named in that connection without their consent.

CANADAY BECOMES GOVERNOR IN ABSENCE OF DUNNE AND O'HARA

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 14.—Stephen D. Canaday of Hillsboro, Ill., president pro tempore of the state senate, becomes governor of Illinois at midnight tonight, for by that time Governor Dunne will be out of the state on his way to Buffalo, N. Y., where he delivers a speech tomorrow night at a Lincoln banquet, and Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara notified Senator Canaday that he would leave Chicago tonight for Washington.

At a Buffalo banquet Governor Dunne expects to go to Washington to attend a White House reception on February 18.

HOLD HARMONIOUS MEETING.

Burlington, Iowa, Feb. 14.—A most harmonious meeting of the first district Republicans was held here today and the following men were recommended for delegate to the National convention: Lamonte Cowles of Des Moines county, E. R. Smith of Jefferson county and for alternates (Colonel) D. J. Palmer of Washington county, and George S. Scott of Lee county. Fully three score of the leaders of every county in the district, with the exception of Van Buren were present at the meeting. Altho Senator Cummins' name was not formally brought up, it was generally understood that the delegates would support him for president.

NAME MRS. EDWARDS CUSTODIAN

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—The new custodian of the old Abraham Lincoln homestead at 430 South Eighth street here is Mrs. Josephine Remann Edwards, widow of A. S. Edwards, the first custodian, who died recently.

BEGIN DRAFTING ARMY MEASURES

Committees Will Probably Hold Daily Sessions to Hasten Work

NAVAL HEARINGS GO ON

Capt. M'Kean, Attached to Office Of Chief of Operations, is Before House Committee

MADE MUCH REAL PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—While the house naval committee continued today its hearings on the navy appropriation bill the military committee of both houses prepared to begin drafting the measures they will propose to strengthen the army. The military committees probably will begin daily sessions before the end of the week in an effort to hasten their work as President Wilson has urged.

Josiah S. McKean attached to the office of the chief of operations, said that while he was inclined to believe with Admiral Grant as to the greater value of larger submarines, other officers had different views. Chairman Padgett explained that Rear-Admiral Benson, chief of operations, was one of these and would explain his position to the committee later.

Information Comes From Boy.

Captain McKean revealed that much of the navy department's information about German submarines had come from a time upon one of them in active service before he could establish his nationality and secure immunity from military duty. HADLEY WILL NOT CONTINUE HIS CAMPAIGN FOR SENATOR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 14.—A formal announcement that Herbert S. Hadley would not continue his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States senator was made here tonight. Mr. Hadley's withdrawal was the principal topic of discussion among hundreds of Republicans gathered here for the meeting of the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri and a dinner in Convention hall tonight.

A statement issued by a friend of Hadley's said the former governor's physician had advised him against taking part in an arduous state wide campaign.

ASKS INVESTIGATION OF DEATH.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—When the body of Paul Behrendt of Stockholm, Ill., arrived here today for burial, Mrs. Mary Behrendt, the widow, asked coroner Hoffman to make a post-mortem examination. She was not satisfied that Behrendt had died of natural causes, she said, and suggested his death might have been due to injuries he received while employed as a machinist for a railway company. The case will be investigated by the coroner's office.

CASE WILL GO TO JURY TODAY.

Winterset, Ia., Feb. 14.—The case of Mrs. Ida Meyer, charged with complicity in the murder of her daughter-in-law, Miss Ethel Clayton Meyer, will go to the jury some time tomorrow morning. Attorney A. W. Wilkerson will complete the argument for the prosecution at the opening of court in the morning. The trial has been attracting wide attention and more than half of those in daily attendance have been women.

GERMANS FOLLOW UP RECENT SUCCESS

Capture Additional Half Mile of French Trenches Around Taur

CRUISER STRIKES MINE

British Admiralty Fears the Cruiser Arethusa is a Total Wreck

TEN OF CREW LOSE LIVES

The whole western fighting front is the scene of engagements. At some points the big guns have been roaring incessantly for days, the infantry have been engaged in hand-to-hand struggle, grenade fighting and mining operations have played a prominent part in the battle while airmen have fought each other above the lines and have been canonaded from below by the anti-aircraft guns.

French Answer Bombardments.

The Germans followed up their recent success in Champagne by the capture of an additional half mile of French trenches around Taur in that district and their artillery bombardments in the neighborhood of Massiges and Navin have been answered in kind by the French.

To the north of Soissons around Terney and along the river Aisne the Germans started an infantry attack but the French put it down with their guns and rifles.

To the south of the Somme the Germans endeavored to surround outpost trenches but desisted under heavy fire of the French.

In upper Alsace the Germans turned loose their guns on trenches the French had captured from them, but the French during the night had evacuated them and the shelling did no other damage than to shatter the emplacement.

Seventeen Lights in Air.

Seventeen lights in the air is the record of Sunday, reported officially by the British against their ones in Flanders. In addition there has been great activity south of LaBassee canal, where the Germans exploded several mines. Heavy bombardments and an infantry attack in that section also are reported, the Germans succeeding in entering a British trench. They were driven out almost immediately.

In Albania the Arsen river which runs westward across Central Albania and empties into the Bay of Durazzo has been reached by the Austro-Hungarian vanguards according to Vienna.

Bulgars Occupy El Baskan.

The Bulgarians have occupied El Baskan an important town in Central Albania.

There have been no important events on the eastern front, but the Russians in the Caucasus have taken several Turkish prisoners.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, Vienna reports, has arrived to visit Emperor Francis Joseph. This would seem to set at naught recent unofficial reports that Bulgaria had asked the entente allies for a separate peace.

British Cruiser Strikes Mine.

London, Feb. 14.—The British Cruiser Arethusa struck a mine off the east coast of England today, according to a statement issued by the admiralty. It is feared the vessel will be a total wreck. Ten members of the crew lost their lives as a result of the explosion. The announcement that the Arethusa probably was a wreck brings widespread regret as the cruiser was one of the most popular in the navy.

She was covered with scars from many encounters and is believed to have been in more naval actions of the present war than any ship in the navy. Within three days after leaving the ship yard where she was built she was in naval flight in North Sea and had distinction of firing the torpedo which finally settled the fate of the German Cruiser Bluecher. Of her part in the Helgoland fight, the official account at that time stated the Arethusa, leading the line of destroyers was first attacked by two German cruisers and sharply engaged for 35 minutes at a range of 3,500 yards with the result that she sustained damage.

The Arethusa later engaged two other German ships and, in company with a light cruiser squadron, contributed to the sinking of the German Cruiser Mainz. In this encounter many of the Arethusa's guns were disabled and she was about to be overpowered when a British battleship squadron opportunely arrived and sank her antagonist. Altho one of smaller cruisers, her fighting qualities and her exploits had given her a reputation of embodying the fighting spirit of the British navy.

NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY SUBMITS REPORT TO DANIELS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The naval court of inquiry which investigated the recent explosion on the submarine E-2 in the New York navy yard, in which five men were killed and nine others seriously injured, submitted its report to Secretary Daniels today. Beyond the announcement that the court had been unable to determine who was responsible for the explosion the secretary declined to discuss the document. His decision not to make the report public is said to have been reached after a conference with high officers of the navy, who advised against it.

It is understood that the court reached substantially the same decision as the board of investigation appointed by the navy yard commandant immediately after the accident tho it placed the blame more directly upon the new electric storage batteries which the board found generated gas that was exploded by a spark of undetermined origin.

MAKE DETAILS OF BILL KNOWN.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Details of the national rivers and harbors bill as completed in congress as for the administration project to deepen the river channel in New York harbor became known tonight. The measuring aggregating $10,000,000 will be brought up at a committee tomorrow for a report to the house with the New York project, the only pending questions. It carries not only cash appropriations for every section, but numerous authorizations for preliminary examinations and surveys at other places.

Among the items in the bill are: Illinois—Chicago harbor and construction of breakwater to form an outer harbor, $14,200,000; Calumet harbor, $25,000; Chicago river, $20,000; Calumet river, $20,000; Illinois river, $55,000.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE.

Marnette, Wis., Feb. 14.—Fire tonight caused $5,000 damage in the village of Hermansville, Mich., and for a time threatened to destroy the large lumber mills and yards. A high wind went down after the fire broke out from Mountain, Marquette, Gladstone and Escanaba reached Hermansville and the flames were controlled.

The fire started in the yards of the Hermansville Lumber and Lumber company.

COLD CAUSES EIGHT DEATHS.

New York, Feb. 14.—Eight persons died here today as a result of the cold wave which saw the mercury down two degrees above zero.

ISSUE NEW RULING ON LIVESTOCK SHIPMENTS

FEDERAL INSPECTOR MUST PASS ON CATTLE, SHEEP AND HOGS

Order Requires That No Livestock Shall Be Shipped From Central Illinois Without Certificate Except for Immediate Slaughter.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—Shipment of cattle, sheep and hogs from Central Illinois is prohibited until inspection is made by a federal inspector by order of the United States department of agriculture, made public tonight thru the state board of livestock commissioners. A statement covering the new order is as follows:

"The present order of the secretary now makes it permissible to ship animals from Illinois into interstate trade for any purpose and the United Stock Yards are again open for feeder, stocker and dairy stock business. However, it is required that no cattle, sheep, or swine shall be shipped, transported, driven on foot or otherwise moved from that portion of the state of Illinois lying north of the northern boundaries of the counties of Calhoun, Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery, Fayette, Effingham and Crawford, to any state or the District of Columbia for purposes other than immediate slaughter, unless accompanied by a certificate of inspection issued by an employee of the bureau of animal industry at the point of origin. The order does not apply to animals which originate at points outside of the area specified and the effect of the order is to prevent the interstate movement of animals for purposes other than slaughter from the territory designated unless accompanied by a federal certificate."

The last outbreak of the foot and mouth disease occurred in Christian county, January 22.

POSSE PURSUES MAN AND GIRL BELIEVED TO HAVE ELOPED

FLORA, Ill., Feb. 14.—A citizens posse tonight is pursuing Wilson Dyer, 35 years old, married and a father, and Miss Edna Golden, a 16-year-old school girl of Kinard, Ill., who are believed to have eloped last night. A warrant against Dyer was issued at Kinard, six miles south of here, today. The temper of the posse is such that trouble is feared should Dyer be captured.

Last night Miss Golden suddenly threw her arms first about her mother and then about her sister, and after kissing them ran out of the house. Half an hour later when the mother went in search of her daughter she learned the girl and Dyer had been seen hurrying in the direction of Flora.

A posse was organized and the couple were traced by footprints in the snow to a point on the railroad tracks south of Flora. Later a couple answering their description was seen at Louisville, Ill., eight miles north of here, where it was said they had purchased tickets to Springfield, Ill.

FIND POISON AND BOTTLE IN ASHES

Madison Drug Clerk Tells of Selling Empty Bottle to Young Orpet

READY TO GO TO TRIAL

Undergardner Admits He Buried Poison Under Orders from the Senior Orpet

MAKE NO MOVE FOR RELEASE

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—A two ounce bottle purchased at Madison, Wis., and poison crystals found buried in an ash heap in the suburb of Lake Forest, are believed by Lake county authorities to form an important link in the circumstantial evidence involving William H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin Junior, who is under arrest, in the death of Miss Marian Frances Lambert.

Charles W. Hassinger, a clerk employed in the Tiedman Pharmacy at Madison, Wis., said today that he sold an empty two ounce bottle to Orpet at noon on Tuesday. It was on this day that the collegian came to Lake Forest. The next day he had his tryst with his former sweetheart. Search of the ash pile resulted from a tip received by State's Attorney Dady. It was on the estate of Cyrus H. McCormick, Orpet's father, O. E. Orpet, is superintendent. An undergardner admitted that he buried the poison under orders from the senior Orpet.

"On today's developments we are ready to go to trial," said Mr. Dady. "I am convinced that the bottle purchased by young Orpet is the one in which the deadly poison was contained. Young Orpet slept Tuesday night in a garage on the McCormick estate. The poison, used for spraying plants, was accessible. The cabinet in which it was kept was broken open. We have not found the bottle, altho the poison was of a nature so deadly that death must have come to Miss Lambert before she could throw it away. A grain of the stuff is sufficient to cause instant death. Orpet has confessed that he stood beside her and saw her die. On these facts we are ready to go to trial."

The parents of the girl disclaimed today any desire to release Orpet from custody and urged that the law be permitted to take its course. No move seeking the release of Orpet was made by counsel retained by his father and it was said that no attempt to obtain his release would be made until after the inquest.

School girl friends of Miss Lambert were questioned by the state's attorney of their knowledge of the relations which had existed between Orpet and the school girl.

WILL RESUME PUBLIC INQUIRY INTO NOMINATION OF BRANDEIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Public inquiry into the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court of the United States will be resumed tomorrow by the judiciary subcommittee of the senate. On the witness stand will be officials of the United Shoe Machinery company, with which Mr. Brandeis formerly was associated as director and general counsel.

S. W. Winslow, president of the United Shoe Machinery company, who was subpoenaed, notified the subcommittee today that he would be present.

Testimony will be sought regarding charges of unethical conduct on the part of Mr. Brandeis in his relations to this company to the effect that after serving as attorney and director of the company he withdrew and later acted as counsel for a group of manufacturers in a suit against the company as an unlawful trust.

ABLY PARTIALLY IDENTIFIED.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Partial identification of Frank Kelly, alias "King," as the man who held up the Cook Tourist Agency here and killed Policeman Johnson in escaping, was made today. Other employees of the Cook office will be asked to try to make the identification positive.

WEATHER FORECAST AND TEMPERATURES.

Military Training.

The dispatches state that Congressman Sabath has presented the name of former Mayor Carter, H. Harrison of Chicago to President Wilson as a likely man for secretary of the navy to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Garrison's resignation. Mr. Harrison's long record in fighting his enemies in Cook county and his more recent battles with one Roger Sullivan have doubtless given him some training which would qualify him for the Washington post.

Auto Trails Bring Business.

Another automobile trail is to be marked thru Jacksonville, "The Golden Belt" line, which is to extend from this city to Kansas City by Way of Louisiana. A great many people do not appreciate the importance of these trails or the attendant advantage to the cities thru which they pass. The marking of a trail always leads to road betterments and when once the trail has been established and the roads improved automobilists naturally turn that way and many are the dollars which they put into circulation in the cities they visit.

In the Hands of His Friends.

President Wilson's letter to the Ohio secretary of state authorizing the use of his name on the ballot reads like the candidate who "at the solicitation of his many friends" is ready to consent to run for office. Mr. Wilson says, "I am willing to permit the use of my name, that the Democrats of Ohio may make their preference in regard to that nomination, although I am unwilling to enter into any contest for the nomination." For months it has been tacitly understood that Mr. Wilson would be a candidate but the statement has yet to be made which will justify his action in view of his earlier declaration in favor of a one presidential term.

The indications were yesterday that the $3,000,000 bond issue for roads and bridges of St. Louis county would pass today. The road and bridge association which has been pushing the movement issued from time to time some very convincing figures to show that it would take

Rippling Rhymes By WALT MASON

WORKERS.

It's good to work, with might and main, until the workday ends; it's good to work, in sun or rain—but do not work your friends. The toiler's worthy of his hire, wherever he may be, though he be punishing a tree or chopping down a tree; though he be "boring" the loam, that narrows may abound. His labor brings his bacon home, and makes the wheels go round. Renown for toiling with a vim the true distinction lends; so work until the light grows dim—but do not work your friends. The willing worker seldom sees the lean wolf at his door; he has his weinerwurst and cheese and other grub in store. Men's admiration he commands, no matter where he wends; he does his work with both his hands, but does not work his friends. There is no sadder, punker sight, in any neighborhood, than is the husky, lazy wight who's cut out work for good. We have seen his maudlin tear, have heard his whining tones; a gilder there, a kroner here, from all of us he bones. To gain a dime this shameless shirk to lowest depths descends, for when a man quits useful work, he starts to work his friends.

a comparatively few years to pay back to property owners the cost for the road betterments. It was shown that the increase in business for St. Louis and the lessened cost for marketing products from farms would quickly combine to overshadow the seemingly large cost.

Senator Week's Friends Cheered.

Friends of Senator Weeks of Massachusetts who has been mentioned frequently in connection with the Republican presidential nomination, have been greatly cheered by the news that the only two delegates thus far chosen from Missouri to the national convention, although instructed, favor Senator Weeks. The senator's friends may look upon this as a good omen but the fact remains that most of the party leaders agree that the nomination of an eastern candidate this year would not be good politics.

The Big Issue.

If former Secretary Bryan starts on an itinerary to oppose President Wilson's preparedness program he will have others than those sent by the administration camping on his trail. A committee met in New York recently and formulated a counter Bryan plan to be prepared for any "peace at any price" campaign. Albert B. Lambert, the millionaire manufacturer, aviator and preparedness exponent, was selected as one of the leaders for this particular part of the work. A whole list of speakers was selected and general plans outlined, so that more and more it becomes certain that preparedness is to be the big issue in the coming campaign.

A Strange Condition This.

Some terrible contagious disease must have broken out in the postoffice at Jacksonville, Fla. Nothing else can explain the government's inability to find a postmaster to serve there. Some weeks ago the postmaster resigned because of ill health and up to date no one has been found willing to undertake the duties of the office, and even advertising inserted in the papers by the government has failed to bring an applicant. The situation is unique for whenever a vacancy occurs in an Illinois postoffice applicants climb over one another for preferment.

Over in Indiana they have found a very satisfactory method for a man to avail himself of the rights given him by "the unwritten law," and the results are not nearly so disastrous as those usually attending such cases. Charles Stafford was on trial at Shelbyville for whipping a man who caused Mrs. Stafford to leave him. The jury found the defendant guilty, fined him one cent and then as evidence of their feelings about the matter passed the hat and contributed enough to pay all the court costs. This plan has much to recommend it above the "revolver and bullets system" and less unhappiness follows in its wake.

Hadley Not To Seek Senatorship.

Former Governor Hadley of Missouri has just authorized the announcement that he will not be a candidate for the U. S. senate from his state. Some time ago Mr. Hadley stated that he would become a candidate and very shortly afterward suffered an attack of la grippe which made necessary a southern trip. Now his physicians advise that the strenuous life of a political campaign would be too severe for him. The former governor has not been very prominently in the public eye since his term of office expired, he is a man who is well thought of in political circles of several states, and he can properly be considered in the "dark horse" class when the Republicans national convention meets in June.

Garrison's Going Cleared Atmosphere. Democrats in Washington—and some Republicans, for that matter—declare that the resignation of Secretary Garrison from the war department did much to clarify the atmosphere in the national capitol building and to bring the president and congress much closer together. So that it may be after all, that the resignation of Mr. Garrison will bring relief to the administration just as did the resignation of Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Garrison was generally credited with being the ablest man in the cabinet, but a story has it that he is also very opinionated and unwilling that his judgment should give way to that of others. The proof of his feeling was very clearly evidenced by his resignation, based on the simple statement that it was caused by disagreement with the president over the continental army program, that the war secretary insisted upon as a part of the defense program. It is an admirable thing to be strong-minded, to have convictions and be ready to die for the reasons on which these convictions are based; but it is also possible to overdo this matter of "I'd rather be right than president." Even a man of good judgment and sound conviction must sometimes yield to the opinion of those of still greater and wiser experience. If the going of Mr. Garrison, like that of the secretary of state, is really a relief to the president, he must charge it up to the errors made in selecting the members of his cabinet.

RECIPES PRESENTED AT MEETING OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE ROUND TABLE

Gathering Held at the Home of Mrs. C. J. Knapp—Mrs. O. F. Buffe Succeeded Mrs. A. J. Ward as First Vice President.

At the last meeting of the Domestic Science Round Table which was held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Knapp, 1022 West College avenue, a number of splendid recipes for luncheon dishes were given. Mrs. Herbert J. Capps read a very interesting and instructive paper on "Hospitality, Duties of Hostess and Guests." At the business session, the resignation of Mrs. A. J. Ward as first vice president was accepted and Mrs. O. F. Buffe was elected to succeed her. Miss Newman was sent a bouquet of roses and the thanks of the club for her splendid demonstration of last month. The club is planning to hold a Kindergarten tea at the home of Mrs. John Cherry, Mar. 18th.

The recipes present at the meeting follows:

Luncheon Salad.

1 cup stoned dates.
8 slices of canned pineapple.
1 cup of broken walnut meats.
1 small bunch celery.
3 apples.
1-2 lb. white grapes.
Some crisp lettuce leaves.
Cut apples, celery, nuts and dates in small pieces, cut grapes in halves. Mix with boiled dressing into which a cup of whipped cream has been stirred.
Place lettuce leaf on salad plate, on this lay slice of pineapple and spoonful of the above mixture.

Swiss Steak.

One round steak an inch and a half thick. Lay on meat board, cover thickly with flour and pound into steak with sharp edge of a plate. Then place in a smoking hot skillet into which equal quantities of butter and lard have been melted, and brown thoroughly on both sides. Then place around the steak enough peeled potatoes for dinner, fill up skillet with hot water, cover tight and let simmer for an hour and a half. Vary this dish by leaving out potatoes and adding tomatoes chopped onion and green sweet peppers.

Kentucky Cakes.

Two teaspoons cornmeal.
One half teaspoon salt.
Table spoon lard.
Place all together in a pan and pour over it boiling water, stirring constantly to make a stiff dough. Form into patties one half inch thick and as large around as top of teacup and fry to a rich brown on both sides in skillet.

Ching a Ling.

Juice of six oranges.
Sweeten to taste.
Set on ice and when ready to serve apportion in glasses and fill up with Ginger Ale.

Turkish Delight.

Grate one fully ripened pineapple into a bowl and cover with sugar. Let stand several hours no ice, then add crushed ice and red raspberries and serve in sherbert glasses.

Mintade.

Iced Ginger Ale, a few sprigs of crushed mint and candied cherries. Serve in thin tumblers.

(To serve four people.)

Curried Rice with Eggs.

One cup cooked hot rice. Four hot hard boiled eggs. One cup white sauce liberally seasoned with curry powder.

Shell eggs and lay whole on rice which is heaped on a platter, and pour over it the white sauce.

Luncheon Biscuit.

To rich biscuit dough add one cup soaked currants or raisins and 2-3 cup sugar. Roll out and cut with knife in strips two inches wide and then in diamond shapes and bake in moderate oven.

Sugar Sweet, Sunkist Oranges, all Dealers.

SEWER CONTRACT LET

Bids were opened Monday by the board of local improvement for the laying of the water main on Independence avenue, Hooker street, Lafayette avenue and Howe street, and the contract was awarded to William Nunes. There were two bids, as follows: William Nunes, $2,616.78; Simeon Fernandes & Sons, $2,636.46. The new water main is to be laid beginning at a point near the corner of Allen avenue and Independence avenue and extend east to Myrtle street, will run south on Hooker street to East Lafayette avenue, east to Howe street, and south to Railroad street. The total distance is about three-fourths of a mile. Bids for the 6-inch pipe necessary for this main were received at the council session Monday and were laid over until the rules.

TO ENTERTAIN STAFF.

The degree staff of Arenzville Rebekah lodge will be entertained Thursday night by Ittebekahs of Carlinas lodge No. 625. The work will be exemplified by the local staff and a class will be received into membership. The Arenzville lodge was instituted last fall.

LEAVE FOR NORTH DAKOTA.

Joseph Fanning and family left yesterday for Larimore, North Dakota, where Mr. Fanning expects to take charge of a farm. Mr. Fanning was for a number of years in the employ of the city and is an excellent teamster and also is well versed in farming. His friends will wish him success in his new home.

BLIND WINS

INDOOR MEET

DEFEATS "Y" BY A SCORE OF 44 1-2 TO 35 1-2.

Large Crowd Witnessed Various Contests and Meet Was Interesting One—Blind Team Wants to go to St. Louis.

An interesting indoor meet was held last night in the Blind school, between a team representing the State School for the Blind and the Y. M. C. A. in which the Blind won by a score of 44 1-2 to 35 1-2. The rivalry was keen between the two teams and the Blind was easily the winner of the contest. The Y was handicapped in the high kick, their representative, Ranson, sustaining an injury just before the event was pulled out.

The members of the Blind team are talking of challenging the Missouri School for the Blind at St. Louis for a meet, in the near future.

The summary follows:

High jump—First, W. Bartlett, Y. Second, Peckham, Y. Stevenson, I. S. B.; Height, 4 ft. 2 inches.

Medicine ball throw—First, W. Bartlett, Y. Second, Austin, I. S. B.; Third, Horton, I. S. B.; Distance 41 ft.

Broad jump—First, Hembrough, Y. Second, Peckham, Y. Bartlett, Y. Distance, 9 ft. 2 1-2 inches.

Back jump—First, Peckham, Y. Second, Whiffin, I. S. B.; Third, Pieper, I. S. B.; Distance, 7 ft. 5 in.

Hop, step, jump—First, Stevenson, I. S. B.; Second, Hembrough, Y.; third, Walker, Y. Distance 20 ft., 9 1-2 inches.

Three consecutive jumps—First, Stevenson, I. S. B.; second, Whiffin, I. S. B.; third, Walker, Y. Distance, 28 ft., 6 inches.

Rope climb—First, Dutton, I. S. B.; second, I. S. B.; third, I. S. B. (Y no entries).

Swinging dips—First, Wiley, I. S. B.; second, Dutton, I. S. B.; third, H. Bartlett, Y. 34 dips.

High kick—First, Whiffin, I. S. B.; second, Walker, Y.; third, divided, half point for W. Wood, Y., and half point Pieper, I. S. B., 7 ft. 6 in.

W. D. GATES IS TO ENTER NEW LINE OF BUSINESS ACTIVITY

Retired Yesterday from Successful Management of Business of R. A. Gates Fuel & Ice Company.

W. D. Gates yesterday resigned his position as manager for the R. A. Gates Fuel & Ice company and will soon leave for St. Louis where he has a position with a commercial house under consideration. Mr. Gates will retain an interest in the business here which he has managed for the past seven years. He has put more than usual effort and enthusiasm into the business which has been conducted along progressive lines.

In the promotion and erection of the Citizens' Pure Ice Co. plant Mr. Gates was the moving spirit and it was thru his activity that the plant was erected. Many of Mr. Gates own ideas entered into the plant construction and it is known as a model of its kind. During his direction of the firm's affairs the ice department has developed in an extensive way and in addition to the retail trade a large part of business has been secured. Mr. Gates has proven an active forceful young business man and in whatever commercial line he now engages the Jacksonville experience will prove valuable. John Phillips who has been connected with the Gates Fuel & Ice Co. for the past year will now assume the management, and is well qualified for the position.

GOES TO ST. LOUIS.

James E. Armitage, floor manager for the local store of S. S. Kresge Co., has received a well deserved promotion and gone to a similar position in the Kresge store in St. Louis. Mr. Armitage came to Jacksonville from Wilkesport, Ontario, and during the nineteen months of his residence here has formed many warm friends.

George Edman of Lima, O., succeeds Mr. Armitage as floor manager here.

FARMERS CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY.

Attention is called to the meeting of the Farmers' club which will be held Wednesday afternoon in the circuit court room at 1:30 o'clock. "Farm Tenantry" will be the general subject for discussion, and it is the hope that there may be a general expression of views from the standpoint of both the land owner and tenant.

SECOND SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE COMES TO AND END

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 14.—The second special session of the Illinois legislature was shoved into history today when three members of each house met at noon and adjourned sine die after performing a few formalities.

In the absence of Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, Senator Stephen D. Canaday presided. Senators Manny, Compton and E. S. Smith were present. In the house Speaker David Shanahan presided over Representatives Igoe and Merritt.

Resolutions were introduced in both houses appointing committees to inform each branch of the legislature that the other branch was in session. Then other resolutions were introduced appointing committees to receive Governor Dunne's message on the veto of the appropriation to reimburse Mr. and Mrs. Scott Durand for the slaughter of their cattle by the state board of livestock commissioners.

Motions to adjourn followed rapidly and both senators and representatives made a dash for the elevators and their trains. The first special session is to meet again Feb. 23.

ENGINEERS ASK INCREASE.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Engineers of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad have asked for an increase in wages it was announced by W. J. Jackson, the receiver today. This railroad runs southeast from Chicago, with a branch to St. Louis and always has been classed as an eastern road. For this reason it was not included in the western wage case of a year ago when slight increases were granted western engineers and firemen.

ANCONA SURVIVOR FILES CLAIMS AMOUNTING TO $120,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Dr. Cecilia L. Greil, the only American born citizen among the survivors of the torpedoed Italian liner Ancona, announced at her home today that she had filed in Washington claims amounting to $120,000. From the Austrian government she demands $100,000 and from the United States $20,000, including $5,000 cash, which she says was lost with the liner.

Dr. Greil said that she would go to Washington Wednesday in the hope of obtaining an interview with President Wilson. She added that she hoped to have her claims settled in such a way as to be regarded as a precedent for other Americans who might find their positions similar to hers as a result of accidents beyond their control.

SENTENCE THREE YOUTHS FROM ONE YEAR TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Three youths, three seventeen years old and third (colored) sixteen years old, were sentenced from one year to life imprisonment today in the criminal court after they had pleaded guilty to charges of robbery. The boys will be sent to the Pontiac, Ill. Reformatory. Four other youths, ranging in age from 16 to 18, were placed on probation.

WOMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 14.—Miss Rosa Lee Eubanks, twenty years old, cashier for a local manufacturing company, was shot to death on a downtown street here early tonight, two pistol shots being fired from an automobile which is said to have passed her at high speed. J. A. Branam, a well known young man, was arrested charged with the shooting, and later a taxicab driver was also arrested. Feeling ran high tonight and a cordon of police and deputies surrounded the jail where Branam was held. No cause is known for the shooting.

VOTE FRANCHISE EXTENSION.

Waterloo, Ia., Feb. 14.—An extension of an electric franchise for an additional fifteen years was granted the Citizens' Gas and Electric company by the voters here today. Also the election was spirited the company won by a majority of 833 votes. The present franchise will expire in ten years, but the company asked an additional fifteen years, claiming this action was necessary before a program of improvements can be carried out.

HAS LEG AMPUTATED.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 14.—Alex Hendricksen, well known as a ski jumper yesterday submitted to an operation in St. Mary's hospital, having his right leg above the knee amputated. He was injured last Friday. At the hospital his progress is regarded as favorable.

MAY HAVE TO POSTPONE FIGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Jess Willard's fight with Moran, March 8, may have to be postponed because of trouble which the big fellow is having with a cold which has settled in his throat. Willard lost several days of training a week ago because of the cold. Then he went at it again but lacked vigor and today he remained at home.

MRS. LOUISE NASH ORR PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Succumbs to Stroke of Apoplexy at Home South of Chapin.

Chapin and vicinity were shocked by the sudden death of Mrs. Louise Nash Orr, who died suddenly at 11:20 Sunday night at the home of her brother, David Nash, south of Chapin. Apoplexy was the cause. She had gotten supper for the family of her brother and while at the table she complained of a pain in her head; she suddenly collapsed; her head fell forward, her arms dropped at her side and in that condition she was carried to bed and a physician was summoned, but his efforts were unavailing and she passed away as stated.

She was born near Concord April 15, 1856, and was the daughter of Thomas and Lottie Nash. She was married to Marion Orr Oct. 16, 1873, and was the mother of two children, Thomas A., of Sioux City, Ia., and Benjamin of Chapin. She also leaves five brothers, Calvin, David and James of Chapin, William of Keewaupee and George of Jacksonville; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Means of Keokuk and Mrs. Anna Means of Springfield. Her husband died in February, 1890. Her parents and two brothers and two sisters are dead and for several years she has lived with her brother. She was a member of the M. P. church at Chapin and has spent the greater part of her life in the vicinity of that place. She was a woman of many excellent qualities and much respected by a large circle of friends.

The time of the funeral has not been announced.

GIDEONS WILL HOLD SERVICES HERE ON SUNDAY MARCH, FIFTH

Members of the Christian Commercial Travelers Association Are Anticipating Memorable Event.

The Gideons, the Christian Commercial Travelers association, have accepted the recent invitation of the Jacksonville Ministerial association, and will be here Sunday, Mar. 5th, taking charge of the services in the local churches that day. It is planned to make this one of the big events of the year.

Real "live wire" traveling salesmen from all parts of the state will be here, having charge of the services—men who sell thousands of dollars worth of goods annually, and meet level-headed business men every day will deliver the gospel message from the practical standpoint of the commercial man. They will explain the Bible work being done by their organization, how they have placed over three hundred thousand Bibles in guest rooms of hotels and other work they are doing for the moral uplift and salvation of their fellow traveling men. Full announcement of the services will be made later.

ANNUAL OPEN MEETING OF PHI OMEGA SOCIETY

Members of Illinois College Organization Will Give Program This Evening.

The Phi Omega society of Illinois college will hold their annual open meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in recital hall at the Conservatory. The following will be the program:

Current events—Miss Jane Nindé.
 Dances of Gnomes, Liszt—Gertrude Kumele.
 Liebestied (Violin)—Farrarini.
 Elman, Melody—Kieisler. Scherzo—Van Gome's Dean Cochran.
 Paper, "How to Listen to Music"—Mary Alexander.
 Eight Rhapsodie, Liszt—Helen Struck.

The night, calmly and peacefully, Verdi—Rebecca Scheibel.
 Trio in E flat major, Opus 14 No. 4, Mozart, Andante—Helen Sorrells, violin; Carl Hill, Viola; Mary Daniels, pianist.

The president of the society, Miss Inez Pires will preside at the meeting and Miss Mabel Forrester will act as secretary.

PROPOSED LAW CHANGED.

A suffrage paper mentions the recent bill which Congressman Norris of Nebraska has introduced in the house. It provides for the abolishment of the electoral college and gives to the people the right to vote direct for candidates for the president and vice president. To Mrs. Frank M. Hoessing of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Illinois belong the credit for calling attention to the wording of the proposed law which would have made it illegal for women in Illinois to vote for presidential candidates. The attention of the congressman was called to this fact and he has amended the measure accordingly.

HAS MEMBERSHIP IN AMERICAN RED CROSS

Miss Ella Walker, R. N., received from Washington, D. C., Monday notice of membership and emblem button of the American Red Cross society. In the past few months a number of nurses in the United States have joined the Red Cross organization and many have gone to serve on the battlefields of Europe. Jacksonville nurses already having Red Cross membership are Miss Lucy A. Mount, Miss Velma Davies and Miss Sadie Guild.

ANNOUNCE INCREASE IN PRICES

Omaha Feb. 14.—Local implement dealers announced tonight an effective tomorrow a general increase in the price of all implements. The increase averages 10 per cent. An increase of two cents per pound in the price of binding twine was also announced. Farmers, it is said, knew an increase was proposed and have protested to the dealers.

WEBER TO BLOOMINGTON: WILL BOOST HIGHWAY

A meeting of the directors of the Bloomington Commercial club was held last night in Bloomington for a statement made today by Judge Harry C. Cook of Chicago county. Judge Cook adheres to his statement that 4,000 persons in Lake Village and vicinity will need aid within a few days and that rations for 1,000 people for two weeks are needed immediately.

WILL TAKE CHARGES BEFORE FLOOD COMMITTEE

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 14.—Charges growing out of the ill-felling of residents of Lake Village and vicinity toward federal army engineers stationed along the Mississippi river over the need of federal assistance for flood sufferers, probably will be taken before the congressional flood commission when it meets in Memphis Tuesday, according to a statement made today by Judge Harry C. Cook of Chicago county. Judge Cook adheres to his statement that 4,000 persons in Lake Village and vicinity will need aid within a few days and that rations for 1,000 people for two weeks are needed immediately.

CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 14.—Adeline Mackyol, aged 3 and Frederick Mackyol, aged 4, were burned to death and their mother, Mrs. Gus Mackyol, of this city, was fatally injured tonight in a fire which destroyed their home. "Dick", a white bull dog, had evidently tried to save the children as his dead body was found nearby. Explosion of a kerosene lamp caused the fire.

Mix the Breakfast Biscuits the Night Before—

Set Them Away in a Cool Place and Bake them Fresh in the Morning

If the family do not all eat breakfast together, you can bake a few at a time. If you are having hot biscuits for supper, mix and cut out enough more for breakfast. They will be much nicer freshly baked than warmed over.

Of course you can't do this very successfully with sour milk and soda or with any of the old fashioned, single acting baking powders, but this convenient way of making hot biscuits and muffins for breakfast is entirely satisfactory if you use which is really a blend of two baking powders, one of which begins to give off leavening gas as soon as moisture is added. The other is inactive until heat is applied. The dough will remain in a partly leavened condition for hours and when put in the oven will come up just as light and fluffy as if freshly mixed.

Get a can of KC today and try this easy way of baking biscuits at once. You'll never go back to the old way.

MR. AND MRS. W. W. YOUNG GIVE VALENTINE PARTY

Was Also Anniversary of Their Marriage—Other News of Litterberry Neighborhood.

Mrs. W. W. Young of Maple Mound, and St. Valentine have the same day for an anniversary, so Mrs. Young and her husband gave a valentine dinner Sunday and also called it her anniversary; blending the two great events into one, which was very appropriate as well as entertaining. Candy hearts were given to the guest before dinner, place cards in the shape of hearts, beautifully decorated, with a verse suitable for the occasion, and corresponding with the candy heart showed each guest their place at the table. The arrangements were very nice and we can say anything that would give you an idea of the dinner, better than to say that it was a standard Litterberry dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Litter, Mr. and Mrs. John Daniels and son Harold Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Farn Young, Mr. and Mrs. John Young and daughter Helen, Mr. Willard Young, Sr., Mrs. Sara Stevenson, Mr. George Litter, Riley Young, Mrs. Lave Campbell and children, Katy and Byron of Jacksonville, Mrs. Norman and children Lenora and Ralph of Springfield, Arthur Litter and D. K. McCarty. This party certainly enjoyed and appreciated the feast, while the host enjoyed the sociability of her guests as well as the nice presents she received.

Mr. and Mrs. Chubb, of Quincy, mother and stepfather of Joe Denard of Corner Cottage on West Capitol Boulevard, came over a week ago to help Mr. Joe in the sickness of his family and are still with him. They think of leaving here and we are sure they would make a very acceptable addition to our population, for we believe they are people who would raise the morals of any neighborhood they may sojourn in.

Ben Todd Litter has been shelling corn for several days.

The revival being conducted at the Christian church by Rev. C. G. Cantrall and Rev. Hale of Indiana, is growing in interest. Sunday night the house was full and gave the best of attention during the whole service.

With fairly good weather, the beautiful solos and duets, the fervent prayers and the deep feeling sermons we cannot see why there should not be a great success in this meeting.

Rev. C. G. Cantrall has received a crate of delicious grape fruit, fresh from his grape fruit plantation in Florida. This fruit is of the latest improved variety, both seedless and coreless. Mr. Cantrall is proud of the shipment.

Our town will soon boast an orchestra, there were four pieces going full swing Sunday night at the Christian church and they made the song service sound much better than usual.

I was very much pleased this morning to receive a call from the youngest one of our family here at the hospital, little James Robert Deaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Deaton of Strawns Crossing, Mrs. Deaton will be remembered as Miss Fanny Baxter of Woodson. This little baby was born Feb. 1 and is named after his grandfather Deaton. I am introducing this little man to his Litterberry relatives and they will do well to make his acquaintance. This is the fifth child of the parents and he is a fine big boy with blue eyes and brown hair. He has good features and a noble head. In fact, he is the best looking baby we have seen for some time and we feel sure he will make a wise man. He looks pretty wise now, trying to put two fists into one small mouth. God bless the babies.—Mrs. D. K. McCarty, at Dr. Day's hospital.

PURCHASES RESIDENCE PROPERTY

Charles Rabjohn yesterday completed a transaction which has been pending for some time and purchased from M. F. Dunlap the Day property on Westminster street. This residence which was the home of the late Wallace P. Day during his residence in Jacksonville, subsequent to the death of his wife, became the property of their two daughters who live in the east. Robert M. Hockenbush for some years managed their affairs and since his death M. F. Dunlap has had the estate matters in charge. The house was occupied for a number of years by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Vickery but has been vacant for several months past. Mr. Rabjohn will at once proceed to make some extensive improvements in the property.

SEEKING THINGS.

Residents of the west end of the city were much interested Monday evening in what appeared to be two new planets in the western sky. The planets appeared one directly above the other and attracted a great deal of attention. It is up to some scientist to explain the nature of the new bodies in the western heavens.

GAS STRUCK IN WELL SUNK ON J. W. MERRIGAN'S MORGAN ST., LOT

Flame Burns Brightly and Further Investigating Work Will Be Done—Gas Comes Thru Twenty-five Feet of Water.

Gas has been struck in the well which is being drilled by Hudson & Sons for John W. Merrigan on his West Morgan street property. When the drill reached a distance of 120 feet Saturday a distinct odor of gas was noticed but not until Monday was any test made. Then the gas was lighted and it is now burning to a height of about 18 inches above the ground. In all probability only a pocket of gas exists at this point, but Mr. Merrigan has stopped operations on the well until some further investigations are made. He had the well started for a water supply and water is what he is looking for, but of course would not object at all to having a supply of gas sufficient in quantity to furnish the heat in his manufacturing department. The gas comes up thru twenty five feet of water.

DINNER FOR MR. ROWE.

A very pleasant surprise was given Charles A. Rowe Sunday in honor of his birthday. When Mr. Rowe returned home from church to his delightful surprise he found a few close friends there ready with their heartiest congratulations and best wishes for his continued welfare and happiness. The guests thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality extended them, together with the splendid dinner prepared by the hostess of the occasion, Mrs. Anna M. Boddy, who gave most certain evidence of her culinary ability. The company included A. M. Masters, Dr. J. R. Harker and A. C. Rice, of this city; Frank E. Drury of Orleans, W. W. Goff of Pleasant Plains and Leigh P. Maxey of Curran. Several of the company have specialized in agriculture or animal husbandry and have thus been brought in close touch with Mr. Rowe in his extensive work in the line. The afternoon was spent in a very happy way socially and the occasion was one long to be remembered with pleasure.

CHANGE OF FIRM.

I have this day sold an interest in my jewelry business to Charles P. Thompson, and the store will be conducted from this date under the name of Russell & Thompson. Mr. Thompson has been in my employ for many years and is known to all my customers. TIED BUSINESS MAN.
"I'm sick of that expression, 'the tired business man,'" observed the melancholy boarder. "I don't see why a business man should be more fatigued than anybody else. I have to walk seventeen miles to this boarding house every evening, and as I drag my leaden feet along, verily after verily, and kilometer after kilometer, the tired business men go whizzing past me in their automobiles, and I envy their brand of weariness."

"Yet there is much to make the business man tired," explained the star boarder. "It isn't physical weariness that oppresses him so much as soul weariness. The business man is the fall guy for everybody. If a stranger comes into this town bearing a gold brick, he first calls upon the business men and endeavors to dispose of it, and generally succeeds for the merchant is pretty sure to fall for it, fearing he will miss a good thing, and that this competitor will snap it up."

"Last summer I was walking along a country road when I saw a big new barn near a farmer's house. I am a man of genius, my dear Mrs. Jiggers, and am always having inspirations. No sooner did I see that new barn than a great scheme flashed upon me. I went in and saw the farmer, and obtained his permission to have the announcements of our merchant princes painted upon the building. The farmer got his barn painted for nothing by our arrangement, and he didn't object to some instructive reading matter on it. He always did have a taste for literature, he said."

"I made a beautiful drawing of the barn, and then went around to see our leading business men, supposing they would hail with delight the opportunity to have their business announcements painted upon that beautiful and imposing structure."

"But they were all tired business men. They had been worked so often recently that they wanted a long rest. But a man doesn't reach my years, Mrs. Jiggers, without knowing a few tricks. After I had been turned down by a few merchant princes, including Wiggelmeyer, the clothier, I went into Sam Ochre's hand-me-downs palace.

"As soon as I produced my chart of the barn he tried to show me out of the place. I was determined to explain the scheme to him, however, and managed to do it. Then he reared up and said he wouldn't give five cents a mile for that kind of advertising. 'When I advertise in the newspaper,' said he, 'the husband and father reads that paper aloud to his family, by the blazing hearth, and they are informed that I am selling suspenders for less than cost. But no parent ever carries a barn home, to read it to his family. I want my advertising to reach the family, and families do not subscribe for barns.'

"I must admit it was sound logic, but there wasn't any money in logic for me. I smiled cheerfully, and rolled up my chart, and said, 'Very well, Mr. Ochre. I don't believe in cheapening such a majestic opportunity by arguing over it. Mr. Wiggelmeyer, your competitor, is pretty near frantic to get a position on this barn, next to pure reading matter, but he isn't a personal friend of mine as you are, and I told him I felt it a moral duty to give you the first chance. I promised him he should have the second, and he's sweating fee water over in his store right now, waiting for me to return with good news or bad.'

"Nothing more was necessary, Mrs. Jiggers. Ochre had seen me coming out of Wiggelmeyer's, and it never occurred to him to doubt my statement, which shows how dangerous is credulity. He took up a lot of valuable space on the barn, and the others fell easily, when they saw his name. But when he found out, as he doubtless did, that my story about his competitor was a fairy tale he must have been a tired business man."

HOME SANITARIUM DAMAGED BY FIRE SUNDAY MORNING

The Home Sanitarium, 523 West Morgan street, owned by Dr. A. H. Kennelrew, was badly damaged by fire Sunday afternoon. The fire was discovered about 2:30 o'clock. The department made a quick response, but when it arrived the entire roof was in flames. The department did some effective work and saved the fire under control. Damage to the house will amount to several hundred dollars. The contents, more or less damaged in the removal from the house. Both buildings and contents are fully covered by insurance.

There were only two patients in the sanitarium and these were removed safely.

The fire in the opinion of Chief Hunt started from an overheated furnace pipe in the basement. The flames followed the pipe inside the walls and soon reached the roof and spread rapidly. Neighbors worked strenuously and removed the furniture, but some of it was damaged in removal.

Some Facts About Roads and Legal Methods for Their Betterment

The state highway department estimates the cost of one mile of 12-foot wide concrete road on the average road in Morgan county to be $12,500. If a mile of such road is built one-half of its cost comes from auto license fees collected by the state and the other half, $6,250, must be raised by the county. If this amount is raised by general taxation municipal property will pay $2,000 and farm property $1,250. Such a road will cost farm property 80 cents a running foot.

Five good ears of corn from each acre of corn grown in the county will pay the farm property's share of the cost of each mile of this 12-foot wide concrete road. A bushel of corn from each acre of corn grown in Morgan county will pay part of the cost of 15 miles of this 12-foot wide concrete road. A bushel of wheat from each acre of wheat grown in the county will pay farm property's share of seven miles of this 12-foot wide concrete road.

If the farmers of Morgan county will increase their yield of corn and wheat one bushel per acre and devote this increased yield annually to building concrete roads 15 feet wide at the estimated cost of $12,500 per mile they will pay farm property's part of the cost of 22 miles of these roads each year. And that is what they would be building roads entirely too rapidly for the state and municipal property in the county to meet their share of the cost without a bond issue.

The state road and bridge fund for 1915 and 1916 amounts to two million dollars all of which comes from auto license fees. One million dollars of this fund is available for use in 1916 on state aid roads and this amount less $10,000 reserved for maintenance of state aid roads heretofore constructed has been allocated by the state highway department to the counties of the state in proportion to the amount of road and bridge tax collected in each county.

The allotment to Morgan county is $6,611. The total amount of license fees collected from autos owned in Morgan county in 1914 was $32,033.23. Thus Morgan county received from the state road and bridge fund, which comes entirely from auto license fees, for use in 1916 improvements more than twice as much as her citizens contributed to the fund in 1914. This occurs because a number of counties pay a greater amount of auto license fees than they receive from the state road and bridge fund as for example Cook county which paid in 1914 $293,129.32 in auto license fees and will receive only $77,177 for road and bridge improvements in 1916. Autos owned in Illinois outside of Morgan county are paying more toward state aid road improvement in Morgan county than are the autos owned within the county.

The law provides that the state road and bridge fund shall be allocated to counties in proportion to the amount of road and bridge tax collected in each county. The law also provides that county boards shall pay all municipalities in a road district so that property therein shall pay road taxes. The county board of Morgan county has not put Jacksonville and South Jacksonville into any road district and neither of these municipalities is paying road taxes, hence Morgan county is not receiving as much from the state road and bridge fund as she would have received had the county board complied with the law. The road district law is a law that the county board has put all the municipalities in the county except Jacksonville and South Jacksonville into road districts and except the two latter all municipalities are paying road tax. Just why one county board in its wisdom has seen fit to make this discrimination can probably be readily explained by its members.

If Jacksonville had been put in road district No. 7 as contemplated by the road law she would have had funds available to pay for a connecting hard road between the state aid road on the Morton road and the Hardin avenue pavement. The law was drawn to meet just such conditions as exist on East Morton avenue. Other municipalities have profited by this wise provision of the law. Over at Beardstown they have three or four miles of hard roads east of the city limits. In order to connect the hard road east of the city limits with the business section of the city a mile or more of pavement on a city street was required. What did Beardstown do. She paved the street.

Jacksonville—well the Morton road state aid road is not connected with the Hardin avenue pavement notwithstanding the fact that the farmers east of Jacksonville offered to pay over half the cost of the connecting pavement.

Jacksonville and South Jacksonville should be in road district No. 7. The prosperity of Jacksonville and her citizens to a certain extent depends on the condition of the roads leading into the city. Her business men are far more interested in the condition of the roads in district 7 than are the farmers who live along these roads. The farmers in district 7 uses the roads when he comes to town and is vitally interested only in the road he travels. The business man in Jacksonville is vitally interested in every road leading into the city of Jacksonville because over these roads comes a great part of the trade. If Jacksonville were in road district 7 property in the city would have to pay road taxes but these taxes need not be burdensome and if they were properly expended it would take but a few years to put the roads and bridges in road district No. 7 in such condition that they would not require much future expenditure. A broad view of the city's best interests, a look into the future demands that Jacksonville go into road district No. 7.

The dirt roads leading into Jacksonville pavements have for years been notoriously bad. Jacksonville has demanded good roads in the farm sections and has given the farmers coming into the city the worst roads in the county to travel over. Jacksonville should set an example for the rest of the county in the matter of road improvement.

The people of Jacksonville might well give more attention to the betterment of the highways. The roads nearest the city should be first considered. There are about 10 miles of roads in road district 7. Twenty-two miles are designated state aid roads, 12 miles are joint roads and the remaining 36 miles are roads in entire charge of the road district. Every one driving into the city must come over some of these roads—some make the entire journey over them and others the major part of their trips. These roads will never be maintained as they should be until the people of Jacksonville lend a hand.

The effect of bad road conditions was vividly presented in the trade season preceding Christmas, 1915. The absence of cars from the trading district of Jacksonville was painfully evident. There were practically no cars from the country in town whereas when we have had good country roads at the holiday time there have been hundreds of cars. Often the square has been crowded with parked cars, but there was room enough in the 1915 holiday season. Not even the cars from Jacksonville could get into town. It must not be forgotten that good roads and autos have extended the trade territory of cities many miles further than it was in the days of old. The country southwest of us has many autos, from the Illinois river trade naturally heads to Jacksonville. We have heretofore drained trade from west of the river. With good roads this trade would have come in 1915, but it did not come. Many car owners who would have done their shopping here bought nearer home and that trade which rightfully belonged to us is gone forever.

The Alton cut-off is drawing trade to Springfield from Rodhouse, Manchester, Murfreesboro and Franklin which all come here. The Blue line likewise is pulling Waverly people to Springfield. Beardstown, Virginia and Ashtand people have good train service to Springfield. The railroad conductors report that of recent years their passenger traffic is slack except during times when the roads are muddy. When roads are good, autos carry the shoppers.

There is but one way for Jacksonville to win back trade which naturally belongs here and which is being diverted to Springfield and other cities and that is by the extension of permanently dependable roads in those sections now aridly tributary to our shopping district. With such roads and the increase in the use of cars Jacksonville would win back the trade she has all but lost; and this would come from more numerous sections for it is a recognized fact that trade is now following dependable highways rather than railroads.

Illinois during the last fourteen years prior to the enactment of the Tice road law spent sixty million dollars on her roads. She was the second state in the Union in road expenditures and the twenty-third in road efficiency. It is estimated that twenty-two and a half million dollars were spent without any permanent results.

It is estimated that a hard road system on 20 per cent of the roads of Illinois would cost from 150 to 200 million dollars, and that 20 per cent of the roads carry 80 per cent of the traffic.

Two hundred million dollars is an immense sum of money compared with the full value of property assessed for taxes in the state 6,471 million dollars it does not look so large and when compared with the real value of property in the state it grows smaller.

Value farm property in Illinois last census 3,905 million dollars. Capital in manufacturing in Illinois last census 1,543 million dollars. Total, 5,448 million dollars.

The road districts of Morgan County which included only farm property during the last fourteen years prior to the enactment of the Tice Road Law levied for road taxes $180,356.00. All but a very small percentage of this was collected and all of the districts collected poll tax so that the total revenue of the road districts during that period easily exceeded a half million dollars. During that period all bridges in the farm sections of the county costing over one hundred dollars were built by the county. How much have the road districts now to show for that half million dollars? Is it not time to consider seriously some method of permanent betterment?

Of course, money and much of it will of necessity be expended in the future for temporary road improvements but economy demands that steps be taken to eliminate as much wasteful road expenditure as soon as possible and this is doubly important when it must be admitted that even with the expenditure of a half million dollars in fourteen years on the roads in the farm sections these roads were quite or all out impassable in the usual wet and muddy seasons and never absolutely rapid driving by horse drawn vehicles or motor vehicles.

The farmer in years gone by was not particularly interested in motor transportation but he has become very much interested and with the coming of cheaper autos and a few profitable agricultural years he will be more interested in dependable roads than ever before.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Jan.—The efforts of the various promoters to sign Jesse Willard and Frank Moran, a ten round bout, in this state, has reached the frenzied financial stage where the successful bidder is likely to surpass all previous records although he may not find the venture profitable. At the present time three proposals have been made for the services of the heavyweights.

One gives Willard $22,500 guarantee or 45 per cent of the gate receipts and 51 per cent of the moving picture profits. A second offers $2,500 flat guarantee, and a $5,000 bonus for signing while the third provides that the champion shall receive $50,000 for two ten round bouts.

Moran, in the role of challenger, is not so liberally treated, although offers to him would make old time pugilists green with envy. One promoter promised the sorrel topped boxer $15,000 for his end of a bout with Willard, another raised this to $17,000 and a third offered $30,000 for his services in two ten round bouts.

All these propositions are based upon a ten round no-decision bout to be held in or near New York City within the next three months. Nothing like these sums has ever been put up for such a contest in the past history of the ring. The record purse of course, the $10,000 given by Tex Rickard for the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, Nev., July 4, 1910.

The largest sum ever paid to pugilists for a ten round contest such as Willard and Moran are asked to sign for was the $32,500 purse given for the McFarland-Gibbons bout here September 11, 1915. McFarland received $17,500 and Gibbons $15,000. The gate receipts were $15,000 and $33,000. Now Willard is offered as much for ten rounds as these two rings stars received jointly.

Corbett and Sullivan fought for a purse of $25,000 with a side bet of $10,000 each so that the entire value of the purse was $35,000 or less than Willard and Moran have been offered for a ten round no-decision bout. The largest gate in New York's pugilistic history was $100,000 given in at the Jeffries-Sharkey twenty-five round fight at Coney Island, Nov. 3, 1889. This amount would not cover the expenses of the proposed bout according to the promoters striving to land the attraction. By no stretch of imagination can a Willard-Moran bout be compared for drawing power with the Jeffries-Sharkey battle. According to the promoters, however, they expect the former pair to bring in close to $100,000 at the gate. To them at least prosperity is no longer a prospect. It is a reality, right in the midst of the fight fans.

Following the repeated reports that the National Baseball Commission was to be dissolved, Pres. Ban Johnson, of the American League, has announced that he is a strongly in favor of a change in the methods of conducting baseball business. He would not, however, deny or confirm the rumors that the National Commission will be reorganized.

From other sources it is reported that the high court of baseball will be reformed with a five member committee or if the three man commission remains it will consist of two presidents of the two major leagues and one independent member, well versed in all the angles of baseball without being affiliated with any of the present day interests.

If such reorganization takes place it will be the first time since the formation of the body in 1903 that the personnel of the Commission has been changed except by death or retirement from baseball. At least five men have served upon the National Commission and of these two of the original trio are still holding their positions. When the peace pact between the National and American Leagues was signed in 1903 the National Commission came into existence with the National League represented by Pres. Harry Pulliam; the American League by Pres. B. J. Johnson, who was chairman; and Garret, former manager of the Cincinnati National League Club. Johnson and Herrmann have served ever since but after Pulliam's death the new president of the National League, Thomas J. Lynch, became automatically a member of the Commission. The latter was succeeded by John K. Tener when Lynch failed of reelection and Tener was made president of the senate league in 1913.

Venue, Jan.—Austrian and Hungarian landowners and farmers are not particularly impressed with the value of Russian and Serbian prisoners of war as farm laborers. Accounts from all sides generally support the old saw, "You can lead a horse to water, but you can not make him drink."

As a farm hand seems to have been a failure. This is true for other reasons than that the prisoners have a natural aversion to work for their enemies. One of the great handicaps has been that the Russian and Serb farmers who were selected to work on the Austrian and Hungarian farms, were for the greater part untrained in the rational intensive farming methods employed in the dual monarchy. The men were shown how to go about their work most of them failed to understand the reason why it had to be done a certain way. Others who did understand preferred to be careless, when not under the eyes of the overseer and guards. But few of the prisoners of war took any interest in the work. Patriotic feelings appear to have been an active deterrent for most of them.

That Austria-Hungary had a splendid crop this year is due to unusually favorable weather conditions. With an ordinary "crop year" and prisoners of war on many of the farms, the country would have fared badly, say these familiar with conditions. It is asserted that the accession in crop returns due to the labor of the prisoners of war is hardly equal to what the Russians and Serbs held in Austria-Hungary and themselves consume during the year. It is, however, that the labor of prisoners of war was more productive in other fields of endeavor, especially in this area where the Russians and Serbs remained altogether under the control of the military. In building roads and railroads no opportunity for shirking was given. Each gang had to do a certain amount of work; results were immediately visible and therefore susceptible to permit correction which was not the case in farming. The engineer troops under whose surveillance railroad work was done could not be easily fooled by the prisoners of war, while the farmer had to wait to see the results of his work. He wanted to supervise his involuntary farmhand closely, could have done the work himself. Since most of the old reservists guarding the prisoners of war were city people no improvement from that direction could be expected.

German farmers who employed Russian prisoners of war are said to have obtained better results, the Associated Press correspondent cannot say that a large landowner of the Brandenburg province with whom he discussed the matter at all enthusiastic over the prospects of having to raise another crop with the aid of prisoners of war. He said that in addition to being most unwilling workers, the Russians had employed failed to learn rapidly, that he had the services of an able interpreter.

The handicaps of language have been sorely felt by both sides, of course. An improvement in this situation is now expected. Many of the Russians and Serbs have learned German and Hungarian sufficiently well to understand orders and be understood in their turn. It is likely for this reason that next year the prisoner of war will prove of great value.

The Russian and Serbian prisoner of war is a very tractable person on the whole. Hardly any complaints have been made against them by the communities in which they worked and lived usually with the scantiest provisions for their control. Their conduct has been very correct throughout, and they have also earned the reputation of being scrupulously clean in body and habit. Most of them carry in their minds so deep-seated a horror of the filth of the Russian and Serb fronts that the opportunity to use soap and water is fully appreciated by them. Of the thousands of Russians and Serbs the Associated Press correspondent saw on a recent trip through Hungary and Austria but very few who had neglected themselves, and their quarters everywhere had a spic and span which no orders from the guards could have produced. Austro-Hungarian officers assured the correspondent that the cleanliness and orderliness exhibited was spontaneous and inherent with the men.

The Austro-Hungarians have been very mild in their treatment of the men. The best understanding exists as a rule, and what little trouble the prisoner of war has given is mostly due to his disinclination to work for, or under, a civilian. The soldier's psychology is such that as a prisoner of war he prefers to remain under military control.

Paris, Jan.—The French income tax law, passed in July 1914 after more than fifty years discussion of such a project, will take effect this year. Under the terms of the new measure every person living in France, whether a citizen or foreigner, must pay two per cent tax on the taxable portion of his income. It amounts to $1,000 or over. The taxable portion is twenty per cent of incomes of $1,000 to $2,000 a year; forty per cent of incomes ranging from $2,000 to $3,000; sixty per cent of incomes from $3,000 to $10,000 and eighty per cent of anything over $5,000.

A man earning $5,000 per year would therefore pay two per cent on $4,000 or $80 per year, and others in proportion.

The Radical element in the legislative corps under the Empire first proposed an income tax and the project was taken up by the Republican element in the National Assembly, but it took tangible form only in 1907, when Joseph Caillaux, then minister of finance, in the Clemenceau cabinet, presented an income tax bill in the chamber. It was passed by the deputies after two years discussion, but held up in senate. It was supposed to have died of inanition and its resurrection was an accident. Charles Dumont, minister of finance in the Barthou cabinet, in asking the Chamber to sanction a loan of $160,000,000 for military purposes, incorporated in the law a provision that the bonds should be exempt of any tax. Caillaux seized this opportunity to resume the leadership of the Radical and Socialist elements of the Chamber that he had abandoned after the fall of his cabinet in January, 1912. He not only fought the provision in the bill exempting the new bonds from any eventual income tax, but insisted that the government bring pressure to bear upon the Senate to act upon the income tax bill passed by the Chamber. The result was the fall of the Barthou ministry and the advent of the Doumergue cabinet, with Caillaux as minister of finance. This new cabinet immediately took up the fiscal reforms, and after a great deal of resistance and numerous modifications by the Senate, finally passed it. The law takes effect January 1, 1916, with the privilege of payment at any time before the end of the war. The Senate refused. The Chamber insisted and Ribot, for political reasons, urged the Senate to cede.

The principal objections to the income tax as proposed by Caillaux were of the inquisitorial features of it. It provided that every person with a revenue of 5,000 francs or more should make a declaration of the total amount of his revenue, and in case the declaration might be considered suspicious by the tax department, inspectors were to be allowed to examine the person's private accounts. The first modification of the law to destroy the right of the tax department to look into the tax payer's private affairs. The tax, as originally proposed, was a substitution for all other direct taxes, such as the disposition on doors and windows, the taxes on personal property and the taxes upon rentals. As adopted the income tax is additional to all others. The authors of the law themselves declare that they are unable to estimate what it may produce. Personal incomes in France are estimated at something like five billion dollars per year, divided among eleven million persons, ten million of whom have a total revenue of less than $500 per year, and a million having a total revenue of more than $500. One authority divides the different categories of revenue as follows:

Headquarters, French Armies on West Front, Jan. — (British Official Eye-Witness). What will the adventurous person who attempts to walk along the French front trenches find when he reaches the Swiss frontier, the extreme point of the French right wing?

He will find a barb wire fence no more formidable than those which enclose many English meadows. After the vast and complicated fields of barb wire which protect the trenches, this fence seems absurdly inadequate and artificial to be the counterpart of the North Sea which terminates the lines at the extreme other end.

There are a few pieces of red and white canvas tied to the wire to show that at this point the neutral territory of Switzerland begins, and a single Swiss sentry stands with bayonet fixed behind a movable barrier garnished with barb wire that is set across the country road. This placid warlike scene seems an impossible tame conclusion for 500 miles of complicated earthworks and fortifications.

One drives to the Swiss frontier.

thru the "Trouse de Belfort", a broad gap between the Vosges and the Swiss Jura, which offers so inviting a passage into France to invaders from the East. One passes at full speed along roads protected from German eyes by tall screens of brushwood. The roads are wind and the Germans have many look posts, consequently the screens are sometimes on the left, sometimes the right, and sometimes on both sides, and one begins to feel that the Germans are everywhere.

By a sentry box there stands a man whom the French call "the man of the extreme right," the sentry who guards the furthest point of the French right wing. He is a quartermaster, a Customs House Officer so long as he stands there on duty with fixed bayonet, he is in perfect safety but as soon as he is relieved and goes away to rest in the neighboring village he enters the danger zone and may at any time get into the neighborhood of a German soldier. The trenches are hidden away a wood 500 yards away, and one might think that the place was without defense, but nothing is left to chance, and the French are ready for any eventuality. The Swiss sentry salutes politely as a traveler approaches the boundary and a Swiss sergeant comes out from the neighboring guard house to examine the papers.

After a little conversation across the fence that divides Switzerland from France, the sergeant proceeds to the formality which he calls "opening the frontier." Half a barrier across the road is moved aside and replaced by a large wooden table. From the French side there appear a number of peasant women with large baskets; their persons are examined by the "man of the extreme right" and they are allowed to pass up to the count. Then buying and selling begins across the frontier counter. The Swiss government allows the peasants in the French frontier village to buy provisions and the like from the Swiss shopkeepers, who bring their wares to the frontier, provided that certain articles do not go out of the country.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR, DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY

Try This. Hair Gets Thick, Glossy, Wavy and Beautiful at Once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandine and carefully draw it thru your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Dandine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.—Advertisement.

YOU'RE BILIOUS! LET "CASCARETS" LIVE LIVER AND BOWELS

Don't Stay Headachy, Constipated, Sick, With Breath Bad and Stomach Sour.

Get a 10-cent box now. You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach or have a bad cold. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? Cascarets work while you sleep, cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.—Ad.

A DENTISTS FORMULA

AN ARGUMENT FOR PREPAREDNESS

Editor Jacksonville Journal:

Preparedness should be our watchword, for universal peace guaranteed by the disarmament of nations is absolutely beyond reason; it is at variance with nature's laws. War and the possibility of war is a natural result of the application of nature's inexorable law, "the law of the fittest," which is the secret of the development of members of the animal kingdom and more the less true in the races of mankind, the highest developed of the animal kingdom. The sacred principle of nature's law is that might makes right. I realize that this raps our finer sensibilities and possibly shocks us but it is none the less true, with all our vaunted intellectual development, our civilization and enlightenment—will you believe it? It is seemingly only a step back to semi-barbarism and the application of this truth, "might makes right," might in the hands of a Vanderbilt, we say, challenges our statement, but we must consider from the standpoint of the Vanderbilt, we couldn't presume to consider otherwise. Fellow citizens here then is the boiled down, the condensed fact. If we as a nation think that our international actions and aspirations, our treatment of other peoples is just reasonable and ever right (as I believe we intend) it behooves us to get into a position or a condition that we can guarantee, to ourselves and other peoples vitally concerned, that might will not suddenly fall into the hands of an unjust people. We pride ourselves in the fact that we as a nation are protecting the interests of our weaker neighbors and by means of the "Monroe Doctrine" we are tactically guaranteeing the national existence of our weaker neighbors, and yet we are not in a position to compel the respect of this principle, simply because nations have chosen to respect our assumed rights is no guarantee they will always do so. We as a nation, being numerically, financially and as many believe, divinely in a position to lead other peoples to follow the course of justice in their relations one with another, in neglecting to develop our physical resources by failing to train our citizens in the art of war, in not providing the necessary equipment, are surely courting national disaster not only for ourselves, but for those peoples whose development we have aided and encouraged.

We see all the great nations of Europe in the midst of a terrible struggle, exerting all their strength and resources in a supreme effort to destroy each other, the cause of which is commercial rivalry or business expansion, from our standpoint, and it is conceded by the world in general, this commercial enterprise is a legitimate right with which all peoples are endowed—on the supposition our business men are, in the name of the United States, developing this very resource. Are we then, to blindly trust our commerce to the moderation and fair-mindedness of the very powers with whose subjects we are commercially competing, who are now struggling to destroy this competition? We see how just to our citizens the applications of such a trust are at present and has proven in the past.

Will it meet the dictates of reason for us to depend absolutely upon diplomacy, supported and promulgated by paper and ink, to protect us in our enterprise, our trade with other peoples and our right to carry it? Will it serve to protect our cities, our industries, our nationality?

Is it meant that a great city shall not make adequate preparation to protect itself from destruction by fire until the fire is upon them? Should the cities of New Orleans or Havana, Cuba neglect to organize a health and sanitary department, until the scourge of yellow fever or cholera lays the hand of death upon them? We need but turn back in our history to the period of Napoleonic wars, from 1800 to its resultant war of 1812. We gave the ideas of the Pacific, chief of whom was Jefferson—a fair trial, did it protect? We saw our national honor trampled in dust, our nation treated with unwelcome contempt, our industries and commerce ruined, our citizens impressed in a foreign service even killed; until in desperation we resorted to self-defense, having nothing with which to fight a fight that would have undoubtedly ended in our defeat and national extinction, if our antagonist had not been occupied in a titanic struggle in Europe at the same time; which required all her resources.

Is history to repeat itself with a far more direful result for us? We see the same powers—not as antagonists, but allies, treating our maritime rights with an ever more apparent contempt, with a fearlessness and, in case we are driven to a resort to self-defense, the assurance of the aid of an aggressive ally in the Orient. An enemy whom we should mortally fear—so long as we depend solely on the efficacy of diplomacy to protect us. No doubt we immediately call to mind the testimony of Admiral Blue before the Senate committee, and a feeling of safety will steal thru our veins. Why should this deception be deserted to? The admiral testified that our navy was strong enough to handle anything that might develop in the Pacific. Now I ask: How can it when it is in the Atlantic with the Panama canal closed with no immediate prospect of it being cleared and a distance of fourteen thousand miles around South America; what can happen in the interval of time that would elapse during transfer? But when we need the navy in the Pacific we will have vital need for it in the Atlantic so the Pacific will be unprotected. The only solution is an adequate navy in each ocean. It is a national danger to us if we restrict the navy's strength depending upon the canal route for shifting of vessels of war; for as long as the lock system is used in preference to a sea level canal it can very easily be closed to traffic by well placed bombs in the locks or disastrous lands slides from the same cause.

We heartily approve of many of the motives of the Pacificists, many of these motives should at all times be in the minds of those who are at the helm of our nation, but we must insist that adequate military preparation for defense be closely associated with it.

Why are we looking upon necessary military preparedness as tho it were some terrible dragon of old, is it because it takes money? Better far spend millions now than billions later and most horrible of all is the fact, that our fabulous wealth will not correct the error of neglecting to train our citizens in the art of war if neglected until calamity is upon us; an error that would fruitlessly cost the life blood of thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of our most virile citizenship.

Or is it because we have not sufficient confidence in our executive and legislators, and thus ourselves fearing to place within their hands the means of protection, fearing the improper use of it? If irresponsible individuals gain the mastery, the voters of the nation endowed them with that power. As well send the patrolman on his lonely beat in the most dangerous section of Chicago, unarmed, but requesting him to uphold the majesty of the law; fearing if armed, he might shoot some peaceful citizen or break his head with his night stick simply to satisfy himself that the weapon come up to specifications or to satisfy an innate craving for the sight of human blood.

When the time arrives that we do not need our executive department in the governmental system, have no need for courts of law and our system for enforcement of law, then, and then only will the great armies and navies of the world be discarded. Do we believe that world epoch is nearing the horizon or even in the remotest future? I fear not.

THE PAEAN OF UNPREPAREDNESS

If a burglar comes to rob you, ask him in;

To resist a fellow creature is a sin;

So let him have your cash—after all it's only trash;

Nonresistance is the only way to win.

If a ruffian assaults you, don't complain;

Mankind were meant to give and suffer pain;

Abolish the police and assaults at once will cease;

Preparedness is neither safe nor sane.

If a brute insults your sister, why object?

You never should get angry; just you never should get angry;

If you cringe and run away, the truly good will say,

Behold another one of the elect!

If foreign tyrants threaten, smile and coo;

They may be harsh to others, but to you,

Repudiate your heroes, and the Atlantes and Neros

Will be reasonable and gentle, good and true.

Should they kill your wives and children,

On the seas, Remember you must always strive to please;

So ask them most politely, If they think they acted rightly,

It will be diplomatic if you tease. If they hesitate and dally,

Send them notes; The country on such correspondence

Are both too proud to fight; And since we know we're right,

What matter if they keep on sinking boats?

Say nothing with the very slightest dash

Of anything beligerent or rash; We are taken for a nation

Which seeks for reparation On easy terms, reducible to cash.

There's perhaps a trifling remnant With us yet

Who are feeling burning anger and regret,

Who remember Andrew Jackson, And prefer bulldog to dachshund,

But they seem to be a scattered, helpless set.

A CALIFORNIA LETTER.

(Charles H. Story.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 11, '16.
Jacksonville Journal.

Gentlemen: A letter from my friend, H. H. Bancroft today states that January brought every known variety of weather, and as bad roads are commonly seen in Illinois.

From the home paper and other sources I get the same account, and it leads me to write you something of conditions here, by way of comparison in part, and contrast in other features.

California needs no further advertising along any of her various lines of climate, soil, industries, or public or private enterprises, so far as I am able to judge.

We all admit that California is some advertiser, and with this admission goes another to the effect that their advertising has certainly brought results.

I would not have you think that California can not deliver the goods—she has a vast wealth of natural resources—real resources that pay. Being the second state in size in the union, with such a stretch of latitude, her climate takes in the whole climate of the United States, from every day gardens and flowers to all the year snowcapped mountains.

The good agricultural lands are confined to the short river valleys and a narrow coast plain, and comprise a very small per cent of the area of the state; however, much of the land formerly worthless, is being reclaimed by irrigation.

In Southern California, where we have spent the winter in and about Los Angeles, Pasadena, Alhambra, Whittier, Santa Ana and Long Beach we find the agricultural lands near the cities used mostly for truck gardening, and farther out it is divided by very peculiar climatic conditions in citrus fruit, English walnut, and diversified farming belts.

We find here, as at home, a wide difference of opinion of real values. Some men insist that oranges pay best; others claim lemons, while others walnuts, or pink beans, etc.

Again we hear men claiming boldly that very few of these industries are paying anything like a good revenue.

One thing is certain, the winter months bring no zero temperatures, and no "northwesters," and to one accustomed to Illinois temperatures, it seems pleasant indeed.

The one thing noticeable, is what one observes here, that he has never seen in any American climate. The sun doesn't shine every day, it sometimes shines perhaps you have noted from newspaper reports, everybody are not millionaires here, neither do we find real money coming in exchange for nothing.

Competition is keen along all lines, giving almost any line of business the appearance of being overdone. There is a tendency, of course, to cheapen many commodities, helping some at the expense of the others.

With all the native wealth of the state it is clear that almost every line of business took to the north and east for tourists with the ready cash—they depend very much upon it. Los Angeles claims an average arrival of 3000 tourists daily, and from all appearances, it is easily believable.

From this ever coming throng comes the additional demand upon the food producer, the clothier, the transportation people, etc., etc.

One prominent feature here is the great mileage of hard roads—a high class road for heavy as well as light traffic.

We observe, too, that such roads are absolutely essential to the welfare of the city and country interests.

The naval orange are just now at their best, and are being picked by the train load every day.

They are perishable, and must get to the market, and this is the rainy season, and the dirt roads are much like our roads at home, very muddy.

Over these hard roads we see every day tremendous auto trucks carrying four to six tons of merchandise, with some times as many as four trailers, each heavily loaded with oranges, lemons, milk-cans, crates of cabbage and head lettuce, and all the various products of the farm.

On their return they carry such things as they must have from the city. We, at home, must learn the real need of good roads, and their real value to city and country alike.

I hope the last man is dead who was so narrow minded and shortsighted as to think and say "that the only person who could be benefited by a hard surface road was the auto-driver."

Another very prominent feature that arrests the attention here, is the presence of such vast numbers of foreigners, chiefly Japanese, taken into account, for you must share everything with them, even your ballot, and if you say "no saloons," he says "I kill your voice."

Personally, I myself, and my wife like the country very much, a general way, and have spent a delightful winter here. We have not encountered the floods in our travels but have gone thru since, and seen the disastrous results of the high water.

We were not hindered by snow-slides, but saw where several had taken place. We have enjoyed the various church services, observing many new methods, and practices. Have been thru several schools and find them of a very high type.

Now that spring time is approaching we begin to think of the green

Some Topics of the Farm

ADAM COUNTY FARMERS.

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Adams County Farm Improvement association many matters of importance were discussed. The committee sanctioned "Farmer" Kusk's plan for asking aid of the State Horticultural department in establishing an experimental orchard for the purpose of obtaining general information regarding matters of caring and handling orchards and orchard products; also for asking aid of the state entomologist in establishing a demonstration orchard for the purpose of demonstration of the use of various spray materials for controlling a codling moth, station for the purpose of obtaining exact data as to the life of the codling moth and further ask that the state entomologist furnish a practical man throughout the spraying season, who shall give direct assistance to all farmers and fruit growers throughout the county who are interested in spraying their orchards properly.

There is no more important fruit section in the state that we have in Adams county and it is hoped that the horticultural department and state entomologist officers will look upon this project with favor.

President H. F. Chittenden of Mendon and Secretary L. G. Hoke of Camp Point were elected as delegates to a meeting to be held at Ottawa, Illinois, for the purpose of making permanent the organization of the Illinois Agricultural organization of this association was formed during the meeting of the farm advisers recently at Urbana. It is planned to have all the counties that have Farm Improvement associations represented in this organization.

The question of co-operative purchasing of rock phosphate tankage and other materials was discussed. A considerable business of this sort has been done thru the association for members only at a considerable saving to the members. It is regarded as one of the important functions of the association.

Mr. Rusk is planning to hold office days in a number of meetings over the county for the next month and much of his time will be spent out of the office, so there is no need for haste in securing an assistant.

Farmers' Club Meeting

The Morgan County Farmers' club will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the court house. Farm Tenantry will be the subject discussed. The views of landlords and tenants as to the ideal farm lease will be presented.

A. M. Masters, A. L. French, W. H. Moseley, R. R. Conliss, John Ryman, Joe Smith, Monte Funk and others are expected to enter into the discussion of this subject, which is of interest to every one who rents farm lands.

Horses Prove Profitable.

I. Whitlock of Murrayville precinct sold a team of mares to Gilmore Bros. for $400. They weighed 3660 lbs. He sold two other horses from the mother of these mares, one for $192.50, the other one for $255, making a total of $847.50 for the four horses. Mr. Whitlock believes this kind of horses pay as well as cattle, taking cost of feed into consideration.

Sulphur for Hogs.

Hogs like a little sulphur, and it is good for them in fact, they are unthrifty without it. The best ways of giving it to them, also the worst ways, have just been determined by the Iowa experiment station.

Mixing copperas (sulphate of iron) in the feed seemed to be a bad practice.

ROCK ISLAND FROM THREE EYE

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Feb. 14.—After a conference today of club owners of the Three Eye baseball league, President A. E. Kearney of Chicago tonight said that he would fight to the finish the attempt to take Rock Island from Three Eye territory and give it to the Central association as had been ruled by the national board of arbitration as announced from Auburn, N. Y., some time ago. The cause has been appealed to the national commission and will be carried to the courts if it is said, if this body should not reverse the ruling of the board of arbitration.

"After a trip thru the business quarter of Rock Island today," said President Kearney, "I am sure that sentiment in favor of keeping this city in the Three Eye field is almost unanimous. A statement was filed with J. H. Farrell, secretary of the national association, that fourteen of the best men in Rock Island were ready to back a Central association, but if the names of these fourteen men be made public and seven persons mentioned admit they will finance such a club I will give $100 to charity."

"We expect the national commission to reverse the ruling of the board of arbitration at the meeting in New York this week, but if this should not be done we shall consider ways and means of preventing class legislation against the Three Eye league. This is a fight of the baseball supporters of Rock Island for the class of baseball they want, in competition with their neighboring cities of Davenport and Moline and the desires of the persons who support the game by their gate money cannot be disregarded."

RATIFY SALE OF CLUB.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—The first step to prepare for the 1916 baseball season was taken today by officials of the Western league in their annual schedule meeting by ratifying the recent sale of the Lincoln club and franchise to a local stock company. It was the first league meeting since the election of Frank Zeigler as president, who succeeds Norris L. O'Neill of Chicago.

DISCUSS TRADE.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—A deal by which the Pittsburgh Nationals expected to get either Catcher Archer or Catcher Wilson from the Chicago Nationals was discussed by President Weegman and Manager Callahan today, but no agreement was reached between them. It is possible negotiations will be resumed later.

ALLOW MERGER OF LEAGUES.

Auburn, N. Y., Feb. 14.—The merger of the New England league and Eastern association baseball clubs into a test club circuit, which has been under consideration for some time by a committee appointed by the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, is allowed by a decision made public today by Secretary J. H. Farrell of the National association.

BECKER IS RELEASED.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—President Baker of the Philadelphia Nationals, today announced that Beals Becker, utility outfielder had been given his unconditional release.

ties. It induced scouring. When pigs had free access to sulphur in different forms they liked flowers in sulphur best of all. Glauber salt (sulphate of soda) was their second choice.

One eighty pound hog will eat of his own accord about a quarter pound of sulphur a month, and there is no danger of his eating more of it than is good for him. Let them eat what they want, but don't, except under direction of a veterinarian, put it in their food or drink. Even then don't do it unless you know him to be an exceptionally good veterinarian.

Cows Make Good Record.

Twelve Holstein cows owned by Charles A. Smedley of Kensington, Kan., averaged 250 pounds of butter fat a cow last year and made him a net profit of $70 a cow. The price of the cow is not as important as the yield. These cows were a better buy at $300 each than they would have been at $25 if they would yield only 120 pounds of butter fat a year.

Sowing Rape with Rye.

If next spring your stand of rye is a little thin, sow four or five pounds of rape seed per acre early and afterward give one or two strokes with the harrow. There need be but little fear of dragging out the rye, as the crop is deeply rooted and the harrow will have but little injurious effect. Of course if the rye is pastured close the young rape plants will be nipped off when they are very tender, and this may interfere with a rank summer or fall growth, but on the other hand if the rye is not pastured too closely the rape in all likelihood will make a fairly strong stand.

GREAT OLD REMEDY FOR SKIN DISEASES

S. S. S. Drives Poison From the System.

Get it fixed in your mind that skin eruptions, Scrofula, Eczema, burning itching skin, and all skin diseases are due entirely to impure blood. If the trouble was on the outside of the skin, by simply washing and keeping it clean you could obtain relief—not even ointments and salves would be necessary. Agree with us in this belief, and you can be restored to health. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable treatment that you can secure from your own druggist—it is a blood tonic that will purify your blood and cause a decided abatement of your trouble, and finally make you well. Fifty years ago S. S. S. was discovered and given to suffering mankind. During this period it has proven its remarkable curative properties as a blood purifier and tonic. Has relieved thousands of cases of disease caused by impure blood, and chronic or inherited blood diseases. You can be relieved, but you must take S. S. S. Therefore be sure. Don't take chances, don't use lotions. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. If yours is a special case, write for expert medical advice to Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

PEORIA WOMAN TELLS EXPERIENCE

Mrs. W. L. McClellan, of Peoria, suffered torture from indigestion, gas, belching and other symptoms of stomach trouble. She spent large sums of money for doctors' advice and medicine. Still her condition did not improve. She found relief, wonderful, surprising relief in a drug store window. This is her story, as she tells it: "I suffered so from distention and colicky pains that at times I was completely incapacitated for my household work. I saw a window display of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and decided to purchase a bottle, which I did. I have taken only one bottle and the results have been really wonderful. I have not had a pain in my stomach since, and let me say that for the first time in many, many months, two days following I have had a natural movement of the bowels. I feel I cannot say enough for the remarkable virtues of your remedy." Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it, on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

FOODS

THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but Rarely Suspected Truths About the Things You Eat.
(Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 19.

Indispensable food minerals upon which life depends must be in the food that man eats in order that the body of man may take them from that food.

All food contains some of the building materials needed by the blood. Some foods contain all of them, except where man ignorantly removes them.

If by accident we should consume for a few months food deficient in some of these building materials we should gradually feel the effects upon our general health. It is not difficult to understand that if we are partial to a particular kind of food from which a considerable portion of nature's building materials has been abstracted we are bound to develop disorder.

When the laws under which nature operates are suspended nature does not operate normally. Man might as well expect a jeweler to make a watch without the materials from which the wheels, springs, screws, and bearings are made as to expect nature to make a drop of normal blood without the elements that enter into the composition of that blood.

Nature will set up a warning for us before fatal damage has been done, in order that we may quickly set about the work of repair. But if we do not understand her warning, or do not heed it, we hear straight for destruction, unless, in the meantime, some accidental change of diet provides the body with the offsetting elements necessary to the maintenance of its balance.

Food is the most important thing in life because upon it all other things depend. Food is digested and assimilated in obedience to a fixed law. It is a man, woman, or child maintains a state of normal health, without knowing anything about that law, good fortune, happy accident, and blind chance are the elusive forces which have temporarily or luckily barred the way against destruction.

In the case of the army of the dead, augmented in the United States every year by nearly 400,000 little children under ten years of age, no happy accident has ever intervened.

Surely it is evident that man should make an effort to locate the law upon which so much physical comfort depends, understand it, and apply it as it was evidently intended to be applied.

Each little drop of blood is an expression of that law. Anything that interferes with the purity and character of the blood is hostile to life. Because man leaves everything to chance and as a rule chooses to accept the idea that it is unnecessary to heed his diet, he sends a call into the unknown darkness and demands hundreds of diseases to come forth from nothingness to assist him in mismanaging the world in its sad sum total of misery and pain.

If we remove from our food one element that is necessary to life we introduce the beginning of disorder into the body. If two elements are removed the body may make use of the other fourteen for a time, but soon the unnatural condition under which nature is thus forced to operate will assert itself and confusion must ensue.

If three or four or five substances sum of five thousand ($5000) dollars, more or less, or such sums as may be collected by a one (1) mill tax as provided by the statute is hereby appropriated.

Section 3—
All revenues from Taxes, Licenses, Fines, Water Department, and all other sources of income (excepting Special Taxation and Special Assessments and all other Special Taxes) shall when received be placed to the credit of the fund known as the General Fund, the City Treasurer shall upon order of the City Council transfer to the General Fund any and all balances remaining to the credit of any particular fund at the close of the fiscal year and according as the City Council may deem best or require.

The City Treasurer shall from time to time and at times during the fiscal year transfer to any particular and designated fund any specified portion of the General Fund, provided always that such transfer shall not increase the credit of any fund to any amount exceeding the amount in this ordinance appropriated for such fund.

Section 4—
All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 5—
This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and legal publication.

Passed at a regular meeting of the City Council this 14th day of February, A. D., 1916.

Approved this 14th day of February, A. D., 1916.

PUBLIC SALE.

Friday, Feb. 18, at 11 a. m. W. R. Ham will sell at his home, four and half miles north of Chapin, a number of good horses, several cows and calves, a good bunch of hogs, a lot of corn, hay and other feed and a large list of farm implements.

Lunch will be served by the ladies of Chapin Methodist church.

are removed from the building materials the inevitable collapse will take place a little sooner. If seven or eight elements are removed destruction becomes speedy. When all sixteen substances are removed starvation begins at once.

If we believe that God has elaborated these substances for man's benefit it becomes a little short of sacrilegious to disregard them or to trifle with them, because by so doing man serves notice upon his Maker that he is independent of his Maker's designs.

If, on the contrary man rejects God entirely from his consideration of scheme of the universe, the extraordinary phenomena which spring out of food nutrition, health, and life must sooner or later overpower his spirit and cause him to bend a reverent knee, in the presence of the miracles of life, too vast to be comprehended by the human intellect.

In all events, whether he be a profound believer or a scoffing atheist, he must see that the matter of breakfast, dinner, and supper is not a matter to be left to accident or to an untrained kitchen drudge or to a food factory concerned chiefly in the profit-paying characteristics of its products.

If he is pale or anemic, if his energy seems to be easily exhausted, if he feels little like undertaking the common-place duties of the day, if his children have lustreless eyes, pinched cheeks, undeveloped limbs, or abnormal tendencies, let him look to his food.

If his children are bright, sturdy, and resist illness by not falling victims to disease which it is wrongfully assumed must come to all children, let him congratulate himself upon the lucky accident that has for a time brought to them a supply of the food-building materials necessary to their normal development and health.

In congratulating himself let him understand the facts. An apple falls from the branch of an apple tree to the earth in obedience to a fixed law. If his children are well to-day as a result of the operation of a fixed law, concerning which he knows nothing, it is necessary for him to learn something of that law in order that for his children he may consider tomorrow.

If a child is temporarily well as the result of a happy accident let us keep that child well by understanding the law by which health is continued. The sixteen food minerals are part of that law.

The body derives these elements, let us repeat, from its food and from no other source. It therefore follows that these elements must be in the food that man eats in order that the body of man may take them from the food.

We shall now try to determine what business these substances carry on in the body and why they are necessary and how many of them are artificially removed from our most familiar foods without our knowledge and what happens after they are removed and thus thru our simple study of the facts locate the law that will keep us well.

THE SPIRIT OF '76

It is coming back again,
And it stirs the soul of men
Like a bugle call that echoes thru the night;

For it lives anew as when,
In the forest and the glen,
The farmers rode to Lexington and put the foe to flight.

Who said that it had died
Knoweth not, perhaps he lied,
For liberty shall live again tho' buried in a grave;

And the souls of them abide
Who once battled side by side
To break the yoke of England or give freedom to the slave.

It is coming back again
With the might that moved it
When it made a tyrant tremble and ruled a people's fate;

And they who scorn the right,
Forcing freedom to the fight,
Shall find the spirit strong again
That made a nation great

TOM H. BUCKTHORPE

FOT BRONCHITIS, PAINFUL COUGH, WHOOPIG COUGH AND COLDS

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents.

When in need of a remedy for the treatment of Bronchial Affections, such as Croup, Whooping Cough, Croup, Suborn Coughs, Colds or Hoarseness, don't simply ask the druggist for a "Cough Medicine" but get the best. Tell him to give you Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, instead of being induced into buying something else purely on the strength of some testimonials or the exaggerated claims of the manufacturer. The same "Money Back" guarantee goes with every bottle of this remedy sold by M. E. Gilbert as does with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador and your money will be refunded, if it does not give perfect satisfaction; in fact even more, if it is not found the best remedy ever used for these affections. In buying this new remedy, besides securing the guarantee this druggist gives, you will likewise be found the most economical to use, for the reason that one bottle (50 cents worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent cough medicine, after being mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. One bottle will probably, therefore, be sufficient for a whole family's supply the entire winter, while the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of medicine would cost between $2 and $3. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic or injurious drugs as do most cough remedies, and it can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Absolutely no risk whatever is run in using this remedy under the above guarantee this druggist gives, positive guarantee R. J. Alkali Makes Soap Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulled coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

FEEDING HOGS FOR PROFIT

By JOHN M. EVVARD

Assistant chief in Animal Husbandry
Iowa Experiment Station.
(Courtesy Morris & Co.)

Above all things, excepting the feed supply and sheltering facilities only, an abundance of exercise is most important. All classes of pregnant animals do well only when abundant opportunity for exercise is allowed. The general tone and vigor of the mother is reflected in the offspring; the better the general health and condition of the dam the stronger and more vigorous the young. Range on pasture is perhaps the best of all. Allow the sows to follow cattle for a while, but be sure to remove them when they tend to become clumsy and heavy. Scatter the feed over the ground, such as wheat, corn, well-podded soy, bean hay, Canadian field pea hay, well-podded oats, grains, etc., and let the sows gather them. Feed on the side of the field opposite the sleeping bunks. Allow hay in racks, the eating at which is conducive to light exercise. Shut the sows from the houses in the middle of the day rather than allow them to huddle up and snooze peacefully. Schemes to induce exercise cost little, yet the returns are considerable.

Warmth, dryness, ventilation and sunlight are the essentials of good hog housing. Such conductive conditions can be secured with a little forethought. Good dry bedding is needed and to be kept dry must be changed regularly. Arrange the houses so as to avoid draughts and heavy winds, preferably placing them in sheltered nooks. Although the hog can stand considerable cold, yet the breeding hog does not have the fat which would ordinarily keep the fat hog warm, neither does the breeding sow have such a warm coat as the horse, for instance, that roughs it. We have found in our experience that sensible shelter saves many cents.

We hog men cannot afford to feed our hard earned corn and other grains to lice and worms. Crude oil is cheap, costs not more than five to eight dollars a barrel, is easily applied, and does the lice up grown and black, hence why hesitate? It kills the lice and nits at one application and can be used in winter because it is an oil and does not evaporate. Oil may be put on top of the water in the ordinary dipping tank in summer, say about an inch deep, or may be applied with a spray pump. Of the many automatic hog-oilers found on the market, these days there are some that "work" quite well. The reliable concerns are anxious to put these others out on the hog farms on their merits, no good, no pay. The prospective purchaser is pleased with the guarantee of no "payments," but returns the machine if it doesn't do the business, and acts accordingly. Gunny sacks wrapped around posts in the hog yards may be saturated with the crude oil from time to time and thus help in the clean-up. It is well to spray the oil on the bedding in the houses. Remember, one had best not use the dipping tank in the "dead of winter" unless pure oil is used because water chills the hogs through rapid evaporation. Ordinarily, however, an old broom, a sprinkling can, and a couple of hurdles handled by two active men is sufficient equipment for ridding the farm of hog lice.

Worms are a serious drawback. We know this to be a good remedy: Sanolium 6 grains, calomel 1 grain, to a hundred pounds of live weight, once on an empty (24 hours of feed) stomach and repeated in 10 days if necessary. It is not well to use any worm medicine upon sows within a couple of months of farrowing, because all pregnant animals in advanced stages have some tendency to abort when given a strong laxative. The thing to do is to attend to the worms in time.

Laxativeness of the bowels is highly desirable, as costiveness is a menace. Plenty of exercise combined with laxative feeds such as tankage, skim-milk, oil meal, bran, alfalfa hay, and so on, will largely solve the problem. However, such prescribed measures do not solve the problem a week before farrowing an emergency remedy of an ounce of epsom salts per hundred pounds of hog will help considerably.

The essentials of brood sow management may be briefly summarized: Provide suitable food, but do not overfeed. Emphasize the protein and ash constituents. Keep the sow growing nicely but do not fatten. Devise schemes to induce exercise. A dry, warm, well-ventilated building in a sheltered house is in order. Kill off the lice and drive out the worms because you cannot afford to feed parasites. Avoid constipation by natural feeding management, but resort to emergencies if necessary. Practice gentleness with your brood sows; speak kindly in their presence. Recalling always that good treatment bespeaks profits with its corresponding profits.

Feeding the Suckling Sow.

Pasture would be the best means provided the suckling sow if possible. One cannot expect optimum results from dry lot feeding of sows with litters following.

The milking sow as well as the milking cow needs a ration comparatively rich in protein and minerals because the milk which is secreted for the young is quite rich in these growing elements, the raw materials for making milk are supplied with profit. We ordinarily figure that 3 or 6 pounds of carbohydrate or starch equivalent should be fed with every pound of protein to the milking cow. Considering the relative composition of the milk produced by the cow and sow, the ration should be the richer for the sow, or about 1 to 4 or 5, depending upon the individual. The younger the sow the heavier the milking tendency, the larger number of pigs following, the less the range, the less the pasture, and so on, the richer should the ration be in protein. The author's guess based on some unpublished evidence is that a ratio of 1:4 is none too wide for a heavy suckling sow with, say 7 or 8 hungry, hungry pigs following.

The following Table VII shows the comparison between sow's and cow's milk in per cents. Just think of it! Sow's milk contains practically 72 per cent more protein (muscle and bone builders), 82 per cent more fat, and 43 per cent more of the precious calcium, phosphorus and other mineral ash which largely comprises the dry minerals of bone than the milk from ordinary average cows. Is it any wonder that sows get thin, even tho they are well fed, producing thru the mammary milk secreting glands such a rich concentrated food as this?

It pays well to minister to nutritional needs of the sow because in doing so she will not only lose less weight, but her pigs will grow faster, be more healthy and thus make more profitable pork. Of course, it is needless to remark that the suckling sow on forage (blue grass, alfalfa, rape or red clover) can be fed much heavier than the sow in dry lot with practically no danger whatever from "humps or kindred ailments." Exercise induced by abundant range on grasses, rape, humps of their terror. The growing pig to prosper rightly must have exercise and feed, a doublet inseparably, his mother too must have been selected carefully from a good strain to insure that "early start" so essential to a profitable "pork barrel."

The grain ration in the corn belt should consist largely of corn, preferably soaked in season for the sow; the young pigs, however, should have their corn largely in the form of the ear, starting out with the dry shelled and quickly changing over to the ear form as soon as they get started.

The best supplements to feed are skim-milk or buttermilk, tankage, middlings, oil meal, a little bran and possibly some ground oats. A very good ration with which we have had good success is to allow all the corn the sow and pigs will clean up nicely, feeding in addition a slop and 1 part 60 per cent protein tankage. Less than half as much of this slop mixture is required on grass as in dry lot; the hog grower should by all means provide grass, preferably alfalfa, rape, or clover. Blue grass, of course, is good, but needs considerable high-priced supplement along with corn for most profitable feeding. On good green alfalfa, red clover, rape or blue grass pasture, on leguminous pastures, after the sows get well started, the ration

LAND O'NOD STORIES

As soon as the battle was over, Billy Be By Bo Bum and Tinker Teedle Tee slid down the oat tree from the branches of which they had watched the fight. The Queen's army now was returning home thru the oat forest, each soldier either carrying an egg or cocoon or dragging a dead or wounded Negro warrior.

"Whew! That certainly was a bloody battle," said Billy gazing at the heaps of dead warriors that covered the plain surrounded the looted Negro city like a red and black carpet. "But tell me, Tinker, why are those soldiers-dragging away dead and wounded ants? They surely can't expect to make slaves of them."

"That is one trait of the ants that I don't like to talk about," replied Tinker.

"Why, what do you mean?" demanded Billy.

"Well, to tell you the truth, all ants are cannibals at times. Although they live chiefly on seeds and grain and the milk of their aphids or ant cows, they are not above eating each other when they get a chance."

"I never saw any signs of their doing that when I was back in the city," protested Billy.

"Oh, no, they don't kill and eat their friends," replied the elf. "But when they go to war they not only carry off the eggs of their victims to their hidden nests, but they also eat the bodies of the soldiers killed in defending their home. But even here you see how unselfish they are. Instead of stopping to devour their prey on the battlefield, they carry the bodies back to the city where they share the meal with the workers who remained at home while the soldiers went to war."

"To be sure," answered Billy, "but on a silent thinking of this new side of ant nature. At this point the trail emerged from the oat forest and crossed a sandy road, but Billy was so busy with his thoughts that he did not notice where he was going, until Tinker shouted a warning. The little boy was so startled by the sudden cry that he jumped back a step, and it was well that he did, for if he had taken another step forward he would have fallen into a deep, funnel-shaped pit that yawned in front of him.

can be composed largely of corn and tankage, enough middlings being mixed with the tankage to make a nice slop. After the sows and pigs are nicely on feed a self-feeder with three compartments may be used, allowing free access of these feeds, corn, tankage, and middlings. We also would allow charcoal, lime, and salt; sometimes wood ashes if available.

Sudden changes in the ration should be prohibited by all means. It is wise to feed the sow abundantly during the suckling period so that she may lose but a minimum of weight. It costs money to put this weight on; incidentally, the good feeding of the sow results in more milk, this ultimately means more vigorous and more growthy pigs for later profitable feeding and fattening.

Feeding the Boar.

By all means the boar should have a paddock in which to graze and range. As with the sow, his ration during the breeding season should consist of considerable, but not too much, protein. A very good mixture for him would consist of 1 parts middlings and 1 part tankage in conjunction with a moderate ration of the sows ration. Feed him, hence it is necessary for the feeder to regulate the ration accordingly. It is wise to keep the boar by himself and hand-feed rather than allow him to run with the sows.

If the sire or boar has a changeable appetite a little skim-milk will oftentimes bring him back to his feed; if milk too is fine. There is little trouble, however, in keeping the boar in good shape if he has good paddock to graze in, especially if no has one in which alfalfa and rape predominate. When in rape, alfalfa or clover the boar will need little but corn to keep him in good shape. When breeding begins, or about two weeks before, allow him some skim-milk, or tankage, or oil meal or other protein supplement to increase vigor of the sperm cells liberated, and thus encourage fertile mating.

THE WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS

A loyal band of Heroines,
The Women's Relief Corps,
Auxiliary to the Legions,
Of the grand old G. A. R.,
True Friendship, Charity and Love
Their motto e'er will be.
Grand sentiments from courts above
Will live eternally.

For lo! Those eight and twenty years

The Women's Relief Corps
Hath gladdened traveled side by side
With the grand old G. A. R.
Their aim is to perpetuate
The glory of the boys
Who fought and bled for freedom in
The late unpleasant wars.

Those loyal hearts are thus imbued
With Patriotic zeal,
Perpetuating freedom's laws,
To bless the Public weal,
Their glorious work will live to bless
The nations yet unborn,
And they'll receive a rich reward
On resurrection morn.

Those noble hearted Heroines
Will help to move the world,
They're public benefactors and
Their banner is unfurled.
All honor to that loyal band,
Their work will ever bless
And permeate all foreign lands,
Promoting happiness.

And female influence benign
Will encompass the earth;

Social Happenings Of St. Valentine Season

Centenary Ladies Given Surprise.

The Third Division of the Ladies Aid society of Centenary M. E. church gave a surprise party Monday at the home of Mrs. E. L. Kinney, 197 South Prairie street, for the chairman of the division, Mrs. T. B. Clampt, and the secretary, Mrs. H. C. Busby. The division presented each of the ladies with a beautiful pin, Miss Winnie Wackerle making the presentation talks. Mrs. Clampt and Mrs. Busby were re-elected to their respective offices. Plans were made for the year's work and for a waffle supper, to be given Feb. 23. Delicious refreshments, in keeping with St. Valentine's day, were served. The committee in charge was Misses Ann and Olive Hodgson and Mesdames L. H. Clampt, James Cridland and Lewis Kelly.

Valentine Party Given at McFadosia.

Saturday evening, Feb. 12, Miss Mae Parlier entertained about forty of her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rice, six miles north-east of McFadosia, the occasion being a Valentine party.

The company was variously entertained, some preferring to pass away the time in playing the popular game of "Rook," while others entered into guessing games. One of the advertisements in identifying some of the advertisements with the curtains and door frames. There were none who were able to guess all, although two identified fifteen of the seventeen. Also they exercised their wits in forming as many words as possible in five minutes from the word "Hearts." Mr. O. T. McLean with twenty nine was the winner.

Partners were chosen by finding the key that would match the key marked out in a small pasteboard heart, the young ladies having the hearts doing the hunting. Simple refreshments were served. A Valentine box was a feature of the evening, each guest contributing, and practically everyone receiving a Valentine.

The guests departed at a late hour, declaring the party a great success and praising Miss Parlier for the delightful entertainment.

Valentine Party at New Pacific.

Mrs. Edward A. Brennan entertained Monday afternoon from 4 till 6 o'clock in the parlors of the New Pacific hotel in honor of her daughter, Frances Brennan. A number of enjoyable games were played and luncheon was served the twenty-five guests in the hotel dining room. Musical selections were given by Miss Mildred Peck and Miss Genevieve Brown, of the Rount college faculty.

Mrs. Frances Frank is Tendered Surprise.

Mrs. Frances Frank was pleasantly surprised at her home on East Morgan street Monday evening by a small company of neighbors and friends. All came arrayed in Valentine costume and spent the evening hours in pleasant social manner. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goetz, Alvin Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pires, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Vieira, Mrs. J. W. Baptist, Mrs. Clara De Freitas, Mrs. Grace Ferreira, Mrs. Naomi Harris, Miss Bernice Martis and the Rev. W. E. Spoonst.

Young People of Brooklyn Church.

Young People of the Epworth League of Brooklyn M. E. church held a dim social and Valentine party Monday night at the home of Miss Marie Goheen on South East street. In the contests prizes were won by Miss Nina Wright and Miss Katherine Milburn. Decorations and refreshments were suggestive of the season.

In Honor of Birthday of Charles Burrows.

A company of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burrows of 408 East Superior avenue, Sunday in honor of Mr. Burrows birthday. The hours were spent in taking pictures and playing games. A very delightful supper was served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Burrows and children, Mrs. John Leach, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Large and daughter Miss Lena, Eleanor Ealey and Mrs. D. A. Cox and daughter Miss Beatrice of Barry, Ill.

Pleasant Time at Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Leach.

A happy crowd assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Leach south of the city, Thursday evening. All brought filled baskets, which contained many good things to eat. After playing many games all departed at a late hour for their respective homes.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cain and son Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reeve and two children, Mrs. Ralph Reynolds and son Howard, and Miss Mary Moroney of Pana, Ill.

Party Given for Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barnhart.

The Jolly Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Winter, five miles south of the city Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnhart, who are soon to move to Jacksonville. Many games were played during the evening, and an oyster supper was served.

Families present were: George Barnhart, John Casey, Hugh Vorhees

J. S. Butler, Lewis Boughman, Jack Harding, John Stars, Isaac Watson, and Ernest Harding. Outside guests were Mrs. D. A. Cox of Barry, Ill., and daughter, Miss Beatrice.

All departed after an enjoyable evening, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart good luck in their new home.

Remembered on Birthday.

Friday was the birthday of Charles L. Carpenter. Mr. Carpenter forgot the event but his friends did not. Saturday, Timothy Riley, John Shields and Charles Hagan went to Mr. Carpenter's home, and presented him with a fine rocking chair. The presentation speech was made by John Shields. Mr. Carpenter was so overcome that he was unable to respond but he rallied enough to invite the three gentlemen to his home Sunday where, dinner was served and several hours spent socially.

Held Family Dinner.

A family dinner was held at the home of Mrs. George Siegrist, 607 South East street, in honor of the 80th anniversary of the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Phillips. All the children were present with the exception of Mrs. Fred Steinkuchler of Springfield. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Phillips and family; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Phillips and family. The time was very pleasantly spent and no one enjoyed the event more than the guest of honor.

D. O. K. K. Dance.

Members of the D. O. K. K. gave a dance in their hall Monday evening which was attended by fifty couples. The Dokay orchestra furnished music and the evening was one of merriment.

Entertained at Cards.

Mrs. Clyde Richardson entertained a company of friends at her home, 613 East College avenue, Monday night at cards. Aside from the games played a delightful social time was spent during which time delicious refreshments were served. Those who won prizes were Mrs. H. B. Capps, Miss Ruth Wilson and Mrs. H. G. Lynn.

Entertained at Valentine Party.

Miss Gertrude Benson of 335 West Court street entertained a number of girl school friends Monday night at a Valentine party. The house was prettily decorated in hearts and other emblems of the day. In the games played the prize winners were Alma Smith, Vivian Hughes and Ruth McDonald. Dainty refreshments were served and the hours happily spent. Those present were: Louis Struck, Alma Smith, Lucile Mendonsa, Mary Gaul, Ruth McDonald.

Valentine Observance at Woman's College.

The St. Valentine festival was charmingly observed Monday evening at Illinois Woman's college when members of the junior class gave an informal reception for freshmen at the college society rooms. Miss Pauline Herrmann, president of the junior class, and Miss Laura McLaughlin, class officer, received the guests as they arrived, clad in the red and white of St. Valentine tokens. A profusion of red hearts and rows of red electric lamps made very effective the decorative scheme. Delicate refreshments were served.

Philatheas Observe St. Valentine's Day.

Members of the Philatheas circle of Central Christian church met for an enjoyable evening Monday at the home of Mrs. George T. McKee on North Fayette street. Miss Pearl Jewsbury and Miss Grace Filson assisted the hostess and this February meeting of the circle proved most enjoyable. Prizes were won by Mrs. Theodore Graf, Jr., and Miss Grace Filson. Miss Inez Griffin and Miss Filson, as Martha and George Washington, received the guests. Pink roses and carnations were employed in the decorations as well as St. Valentine emblems.

There were present as guests: Mrs. Mabel Dunavan, Mrs. L. R. Hamilton and son, Mrs. B. C. Lutz, Mrs. Theodore Graf, Jr., Miss Wilma Emerick, Mrs. Arthur Jackson, Miss Orpha Ray, Miss Elizabeth Brewer, Miss Lydia DePew, Ford Jackson, Mrs. Charles E. Cully, Miss Mary Thorndike, Miss Iva Blimling, Miss Ada V. Smith, Miss Lottie Blackford, Miss Ida Blackford, Miss Mary Dewees, teacher of the class; Mrs. J. L. Blackford, Miss Margaret Coffman, Mrs. Mae Plunkett, Mrs. Minnie Haneline, Mrs. Bertha Hellenthal, Mrs. Lydia Ricks, Mrs. Ernest Shiley, Miss Linnie Blevins, Grace E. Moses, Miss Margaret Green, Miss Linda Evans, Miss Carrie Henderson, Miss Gretel Moses, Miss Louise Hamilton and Miss Inez Griffin.

Sunday School Class Entertained.

The members of the Faithful Followers Sunday school class of Central Christian church, were entertained Monday evening at the home of Miss Catherine Gustafson of South East street. Twenty-four members were present and the evening was spent with music and games. Prizes were won by Miss Adelaide McCarty, Miss Helen Baker and Miss Mabel Ruyle. The house was tastefully decorated with red and white hearts to carry out the idea of Valentine day. Refreshments were served.

MRS. RHODA SLOAN DIES SUDDENLY OF HEMORRAGE

Inquest Was Held by Coroner Wright.—Funeral Will be Wednesday Morning.

Mrs. Rhoda Sloan died suddenly of hemorrhage at the home of her mother, Mrs. Nancy Jones of East College avenue, early Monday morning. Her mother was the only one present at the time of death and when the remains were removed to the Reynolds undertaking parlors Coroner Wright was notified. He empaneled a jury and held an inquest. The verdict was in accordance with the facts as given above. The jury was composed of the following: A. J. Weakley, foreman; J. W. Sargent, G. W. Sample, Frank Fanning, L. V. Seymour and R. R. Stevenson, clerk. The funeral will be held from the residence Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in charge of the Rev. F. A. McCarty, with interment in Jacksonville cemetery.

DUNLAP HOTEL REMODELLED BY NEW EQUIPMENT

The Dunlap hotel the oldest hotel in the city and perhaps one of the most noted in the state has recently undergone a complete remodeling and furnishing. Mrs. E. Brewer, the proprietress has left nothing undone and today the Dunlap hotel is one of the most modern in the country.

One of the main features of the hotel is the lobby. This has been remodelled so that one would scarcely know it. A large plate glass window has been placed in the front. The walls have been redecorated and the ceiling has been artistically paneled.

The old counter has been discarded and a new counter of quarter sawed oak has been installed. This counter is a handsome piece of work and has a clear case and cash register. Mrs. Brewer has also installed the card system to keep the accounts of guests instead of the old fashioned bookkeeping system which saves lots of work for the clerk.

The toilet and wash room has been equipped with the latest in the plumbing line and the writing room also has undergone renovation in connection with the other parts of the building.

In the rooms great changes have been made. All of the rooms have been furnished with Wilton velvet carpets and the new beds are the Vernis Martin with two inch posts. All the mattresses and springs are new as well as the other equipment. There is hot and cold running water in every room.

The furniture in the office is fine leather finished rocking chairs of the latest style. The office lights are the new Brasco lights giving the indirect lighting system.

Those who had part in the remodeling are as follows: Decorating, J. J. Mallen and Son; Room furniture, C. E. Hudgin and Co.; Plumbing, E. E. Beasly; Lighting, G. A. Seiber; office furniture, Andre and Andre; counter and desk, the Crawford Planning Mill company.

WILLIAMSON GROCERY STORE
LEASED BY HARDING AND WILSON

D. L. Harding and Verne Wilson have leased the Williamson grocery store on West State street and will occupy it in the near future with a complete stock of groceries. The Williamson store is one of the oldest establishments in the city and was conducted for many years by the late J. B. Williamson and his son, A. B. Williamson. A. B. Williamson has already commenced the work of remodeling the building. A new front will be placed and other improvements will be made. When the improvements are completed the building will be modern in every respect.

RATE CASE STIPULATION DOES NOT ABSOLUTELY BAR APPEAL

Loophole is Left to Provide for Future Action—Officials Hope for Finding Within Short Time.

While there is no certainty about the matter, the city officials who attended the hearing in Chicago recently before the Illinois utilities commission feel quite hopeful that a rate will be announced at some early date fixing the price the railway and light company may charge for light and power in Jacksonville. The published statements in reference to the hearing some misconception of actual conditions has occurred. It was previously stated that the company and the petitioners had both signed their willingness to abide by the rates which the commission might announce and that if the commission would agree to an early settlement of the case that no appeal would be taken. A reading of the stipulation filed at the hearing does not quite bear out this statement. The stipulation says, "We have reason to believe the rates which the commission may fix may prove satisfactory to the parties hereto, in which event they will acquiesce therein and stipulate to abide thereby." This sentence is so phrased that neither party to the proceedings is barred absolutely from taking further action which may seem desirable. From the standpoint of the petitioners of the city it will be advantageous to secure an early decision because of pending street improvements. The management of the railway and light company have stated their unwillingness to consent to any payment for public improvements until it is definitely known what the commission will do in the rate case. In view of this fact, if improvement proceedings are pushed before any rate has been announced, the company will file objections.

Even though the company must eventually pay in accordance with the order of the court, the fact that there are objections has an effect on the bids made by contractors. When a contractor is to be paid for his work in the first place that all the legal routine necessary for making of a public improvement has been followed out to the letter or his bonds will not be marketable. He must also figure that if some of the objectors are to take the matter up to the supreme court, that while the sale of the bonds will not be impossible, that their value will be somewhat impaired. As a protection against the possibility of loss, therefore, the average contractor will put in a higher bid on an improvement job where some court proceeding is pending than he will on a job where all the record is clear and the property owners are not making any legal fight.

APPROPRIATION ORDINANCE PASSED BY COUNCIL MONDAY

Measure Given Second Reading Necessary—Water Pipe Bids Opened.

At the session of the city council Monday morning the principal business was the passage of the appropriation ordinance. This measure was given a second reading and adopted. Mr. Vasconcellos was absent as he had not returned from Chicago at the time of the council session. Mr. Widmayer reported that the audit of the city's books made by R. A. Gates had been received and it was ordered accepted. Mr. Cox reported the purchase of a new team for the street department and the sale of two horses belonging to the city. Mr. Martin reported transfer of a horse from the fire department to the water department. Bids for furnishing the city with about 3,200 feet of 6-inch cast iron water pipe were opened by City Clerk Pyatt and were as follows:

American Cast Iron Pipe company, $29.01 per ton, fittings 3c per lb.
Crane company, $27.50 per ton, fittings 3 1-4c per lb.
Bernard Gause, $29.60 per ton, fittings 3c per lb.
C. C. Schureman, $29.70 per ton, 3 1-2c per lb.
United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company, $29.05 per ton, fittings 3c per lb.

Under the rules it is necessary for bids involving an expenditure of this size to lay over and thus no action was taken. A foot of pipe weighs 32 lbs., so that between 40 and 50 tons will be required for the work in prospect.
